The Park School Of Buffalo

. . . we believe that creed and deed are inseparable and that a community dedicated to individual human worth and dignity will foster in each developing young person a philosophy of sound and permanent value both for him and for mankind.

The Park School of Buffalo is an independent country day school for boys and girls three years old through high school. It is organized as a non-profit corporation under the Education Law of the State of New York.

An elected Board of Trustees determines school policies which are administered by the Headmaster and the heads of the School's four academic divisions. The student body averages 465 pupils. The faculty of 70 teachers creates a student-teacher ratio of less than ten to one.

The School is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and by the New York State Department of Education. It is a member of the National Association of Independent Schools, the Educational Records Bureau and the New York State Association of Independent Schools.

Founded by parents in 1912, The Park School views education as inseparable from living and the school experiences as contributing positively to all aspects of growth. Students learn the art of living through well-conceived daily programs, guided and progressively increased opportunities to practice freedom and initiative. Rather than impose patterns upon its students, The Park School encourages in each child the development of self-motivation, self-direction and self-discipline.

The School is situated on 40 acres in Snyder, a Buffalo suburb. The natural resources of the land itself . . . orchards, pond, marsh and sanctuary, flowering shrubs and plants . . . provide students of all ages the opportunity to observe, investigate and experiment with nature's phenomena. The buildings on the campus lend the impression of a community rather than an institution. Eight separate buildings are used for academic instruction, the newest being Chapin Hall, a contemporary library-teaching center opened in the spring of 1969. Other facilities include two gymnasiums, a dining hall, a bookstore, Headmaster's house and three additional residences. The athletic fields are supplemented by tennis courts, pools and separate playgrounds for the small children. A registered nurse is on duty throughout the school day.

The academic year, which is on a trimester basis, extends from the second week of September until the end of the first week of June. There are 34 weeks of instruction exclusive of Thanksgiving, Christmas and Spring recesses. The School also offers a six-week academic Summer Session and two three-week sessions of the Summer Day Camp.

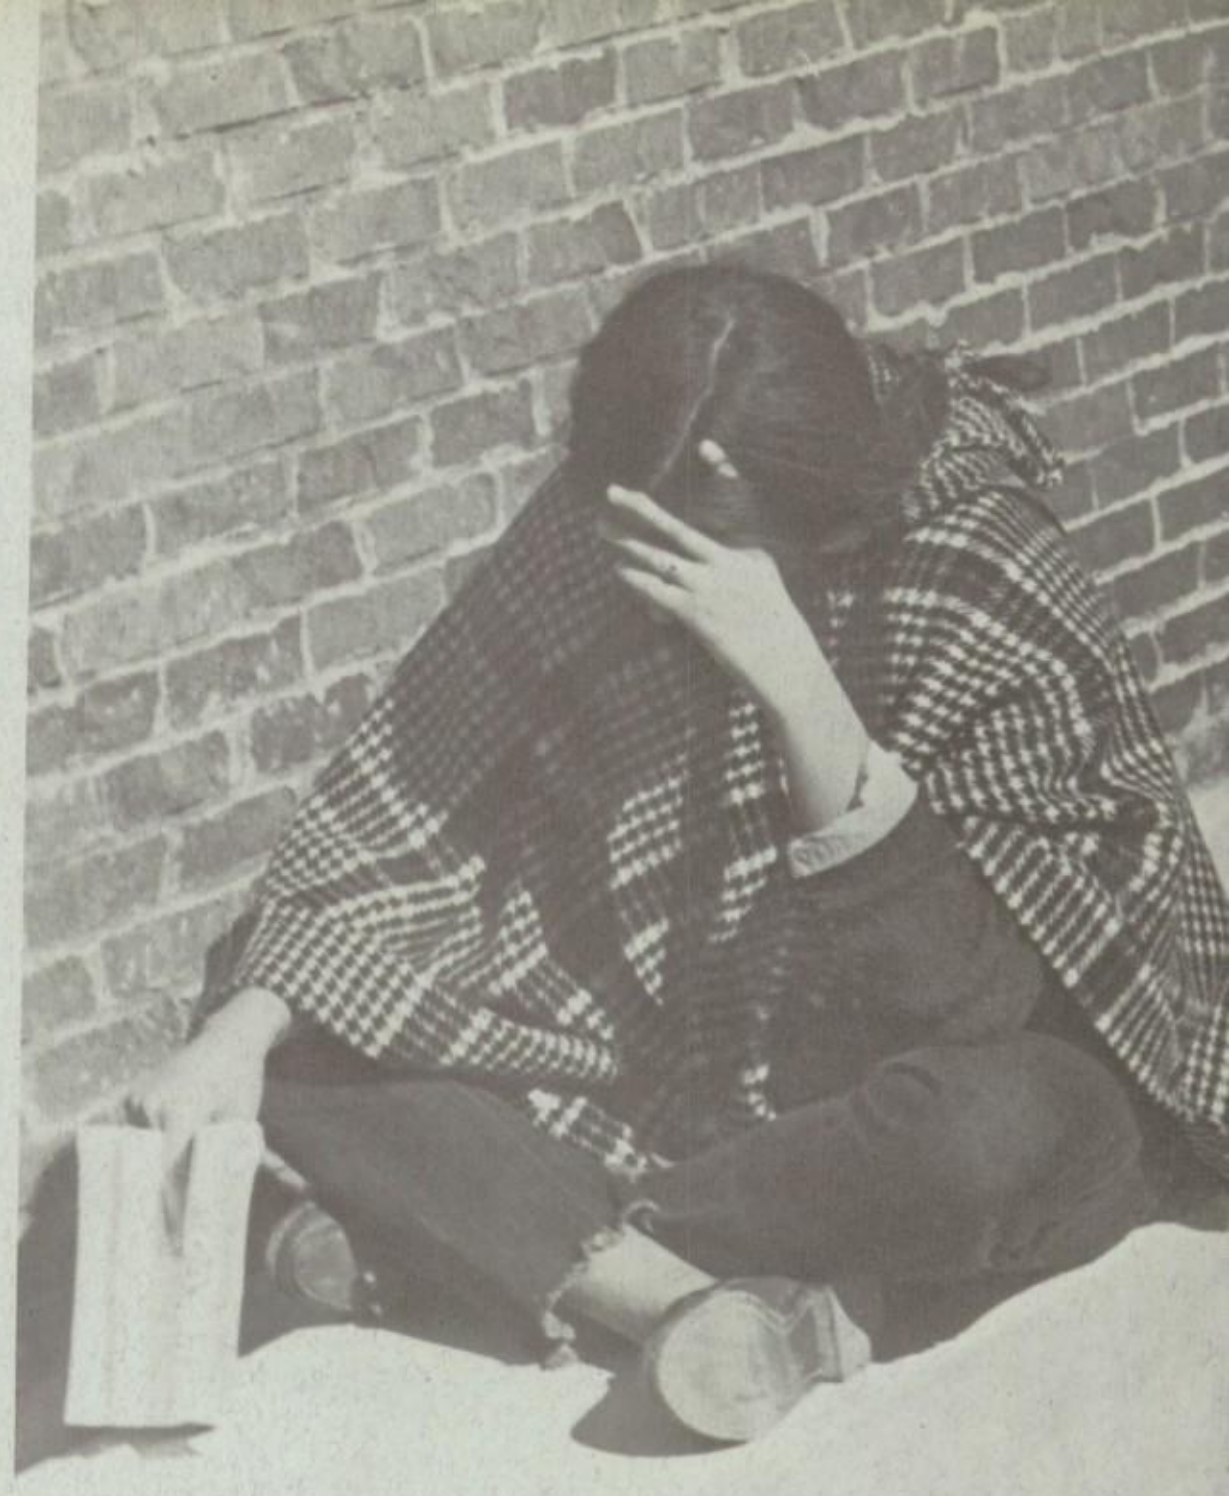
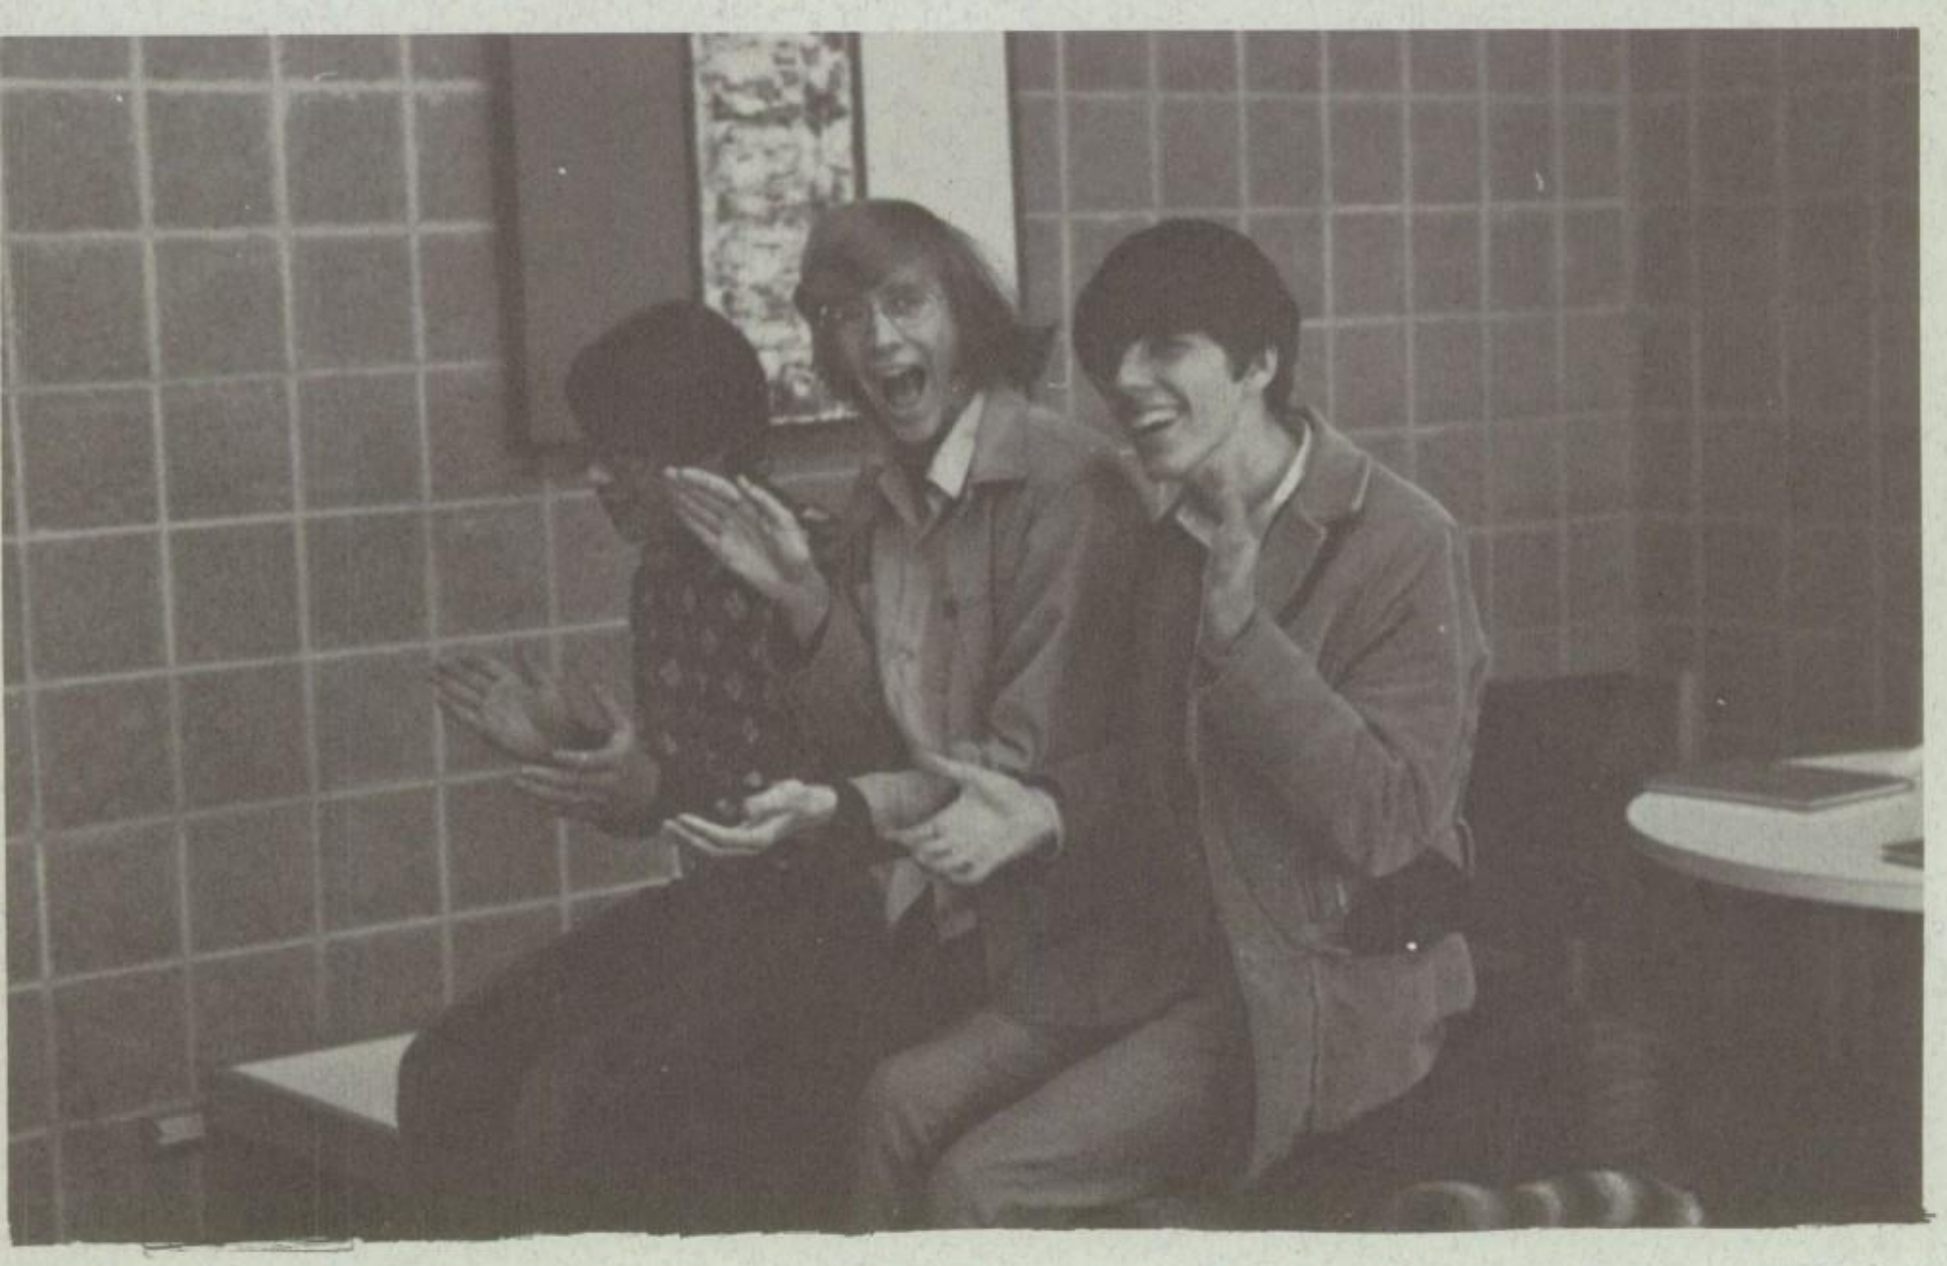
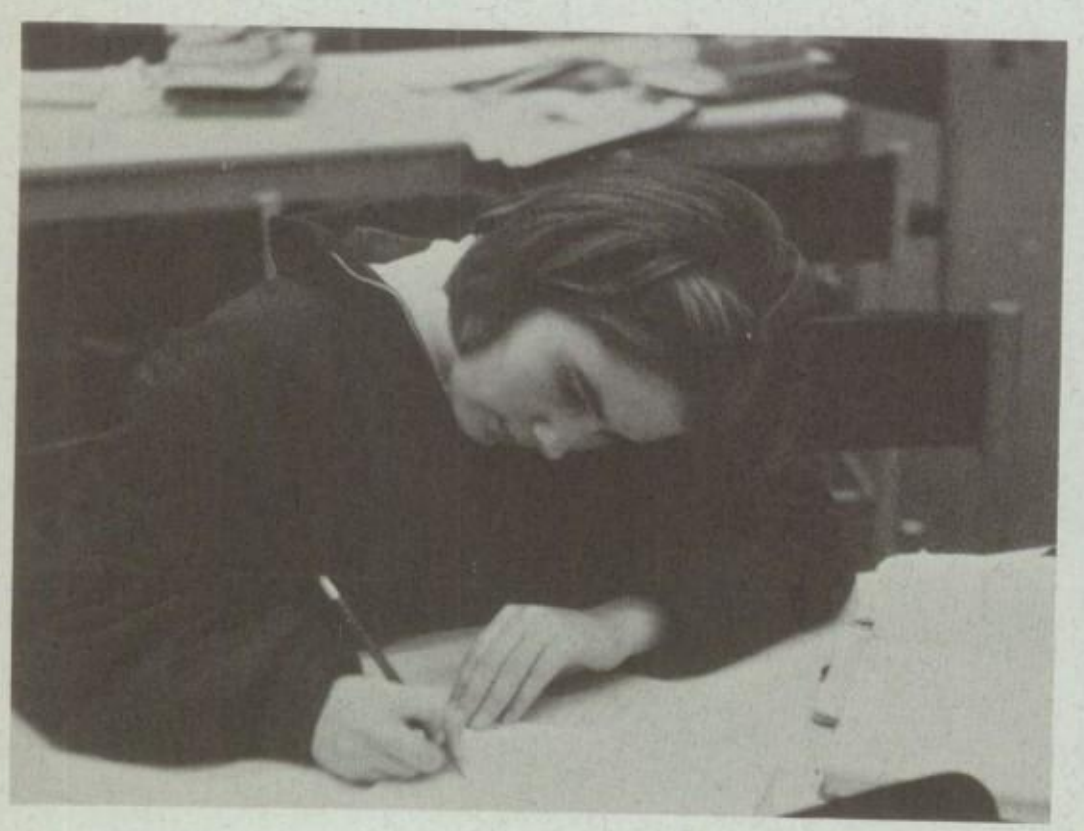
ZONK
YOU!

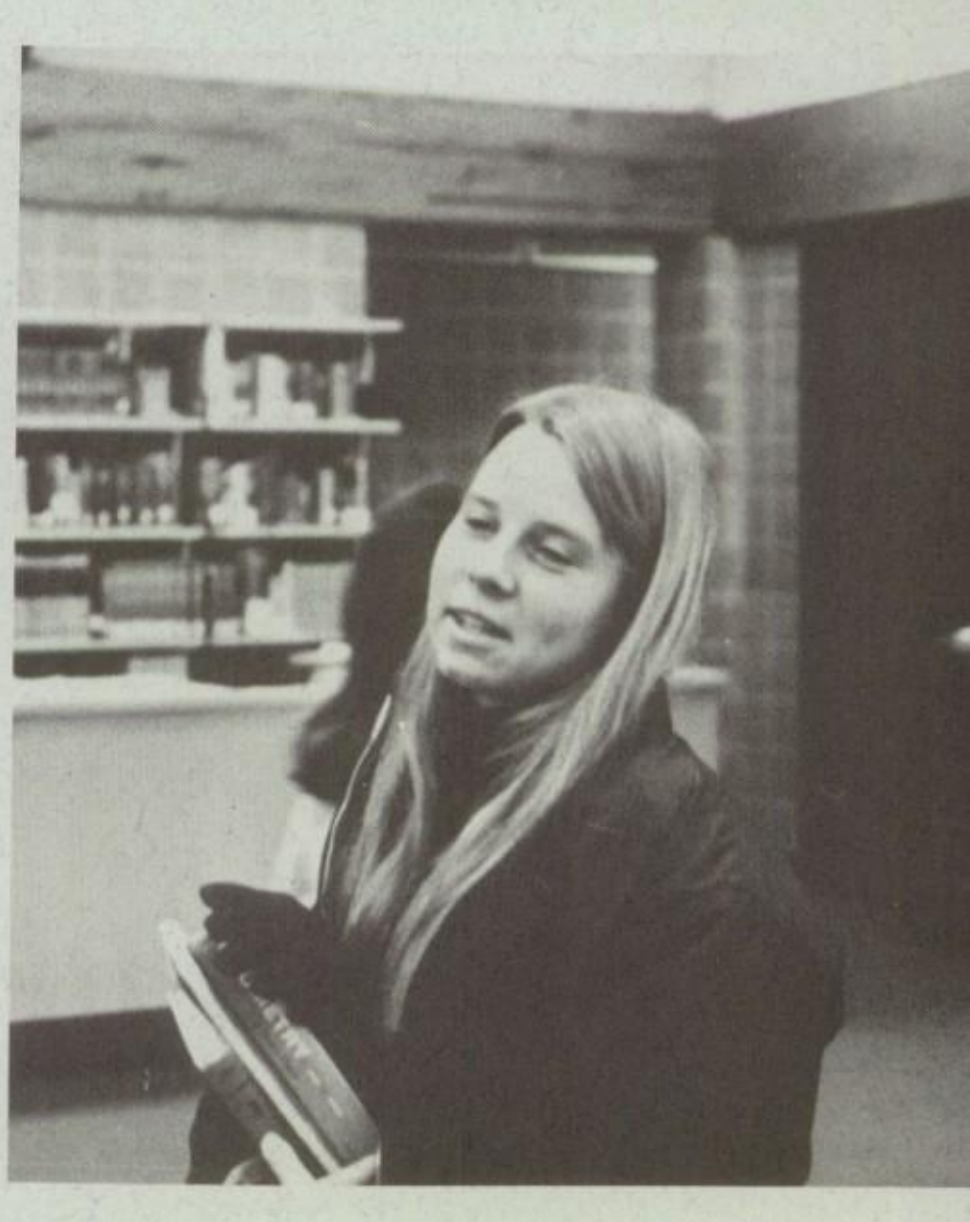
I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think, all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read, all the friends I want to see. The longer I live the more my mind dwells upon the beauty and wonder of the world.

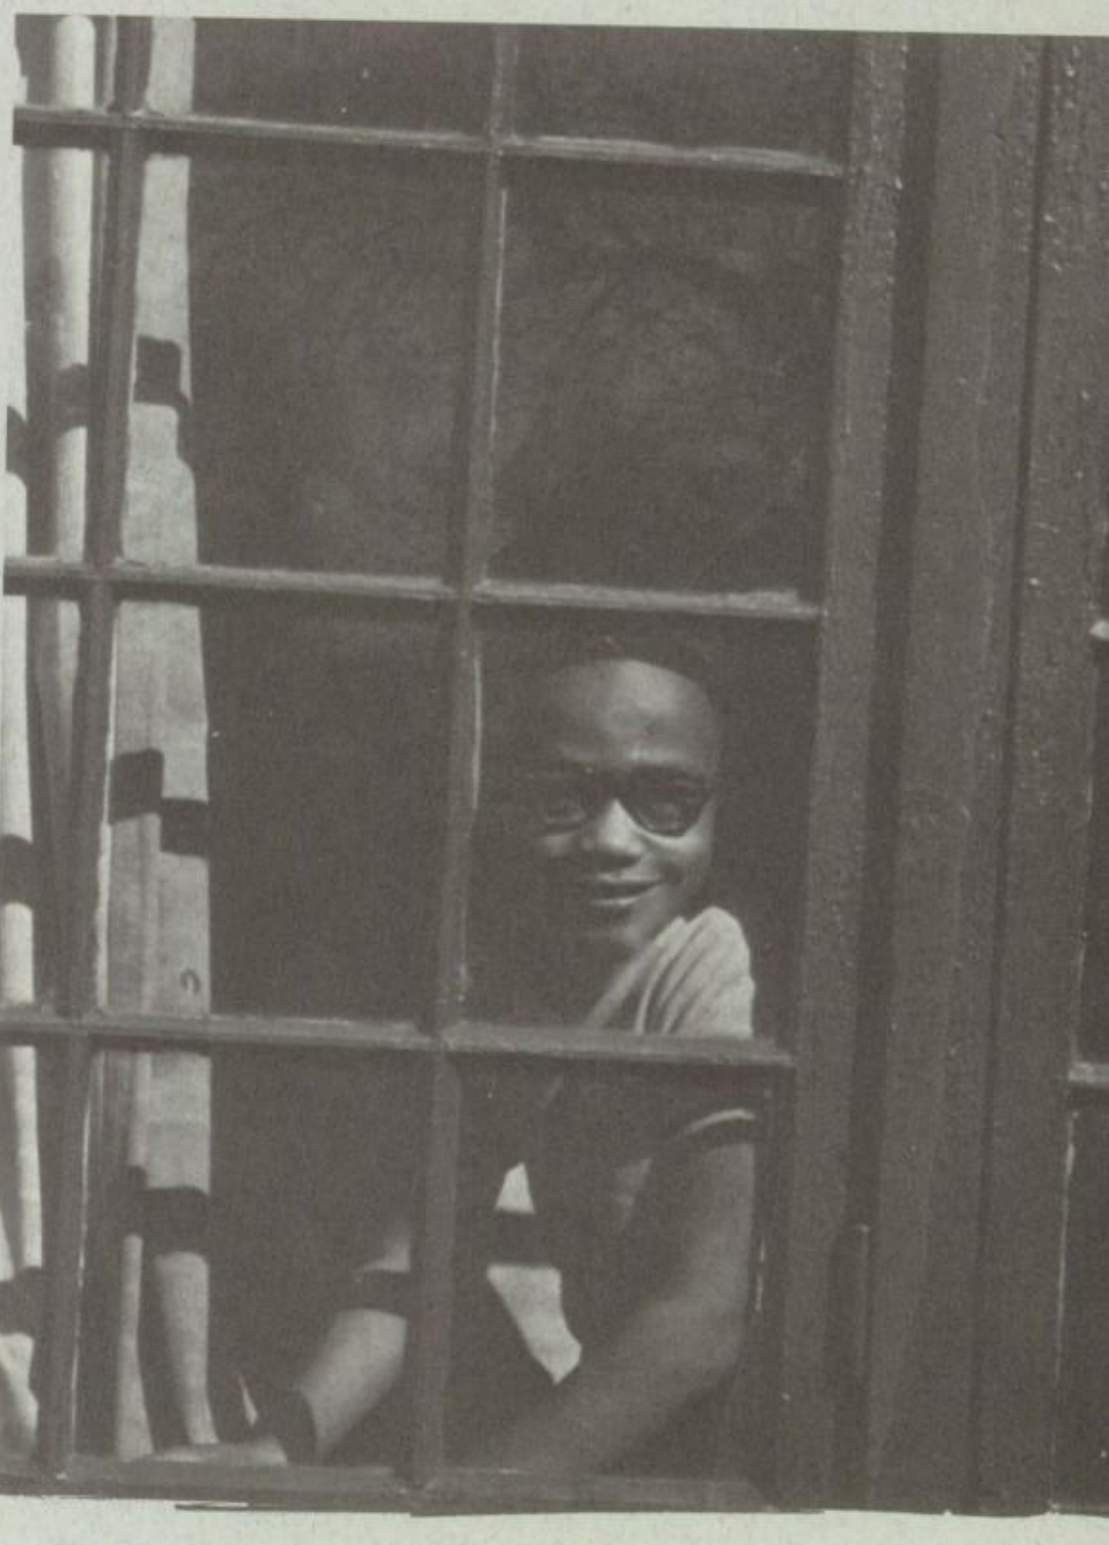


I have no yesterdays,
Time took them away;
Tomorrow may not be —
But I have today









I do not own an inch of land,
but all I see is mine.

Dedication

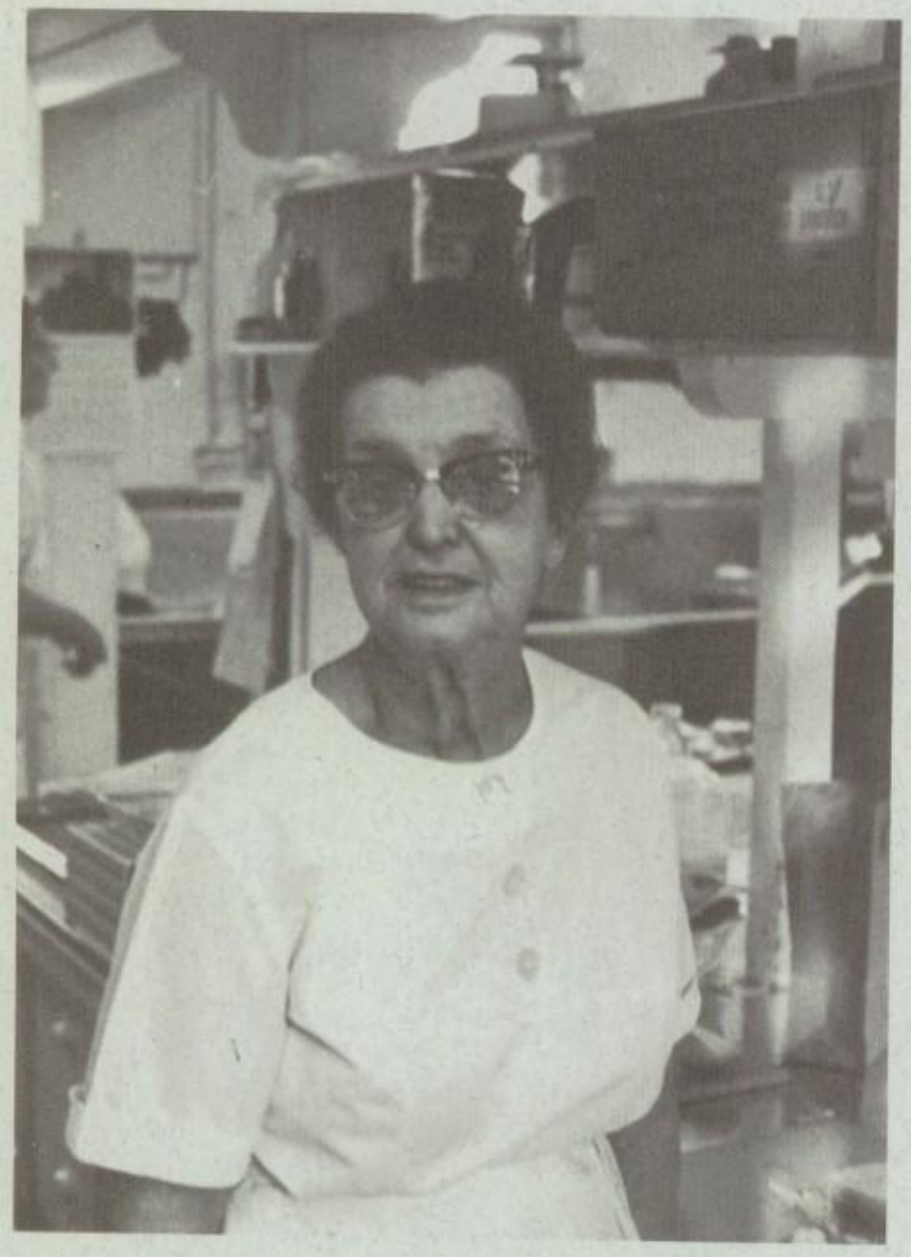
We turn to him for answers, for advice and for friendship. He has stood by us and defended us to the very end. He has taught us the necessity of unity and the tactful measures which may be applied to accomplish the desired results.

He manages to maintain his amiable sense of humor through typical Park School disasters and disciplinary problems. He takes time to truly get to know each one of us, individually, and we feel the sincerity of his smile when he stops to talk to us.

Therefore, we, the class of 1970, gratefully dedicate our Spark to Mr. Bernd Deschermeier.

". . . that Gentleness is stronger than severity, that water is stronger than rock, that love is stronger than force."

Tributes



Lydia. An extra batch of cookies, fresh from the oven, for a pair of emaciated seniors. A furtive second brownie at lunch. A smile and a big, "Hello." Always telling us she really shouldn't, and always that twinkle in the eye and the struggle to keep from smiling when she scolds us for eating between meals.

Lydia, you are a part of us, and we wish you could come with us next year to make sure that we eat right and that life goes well.

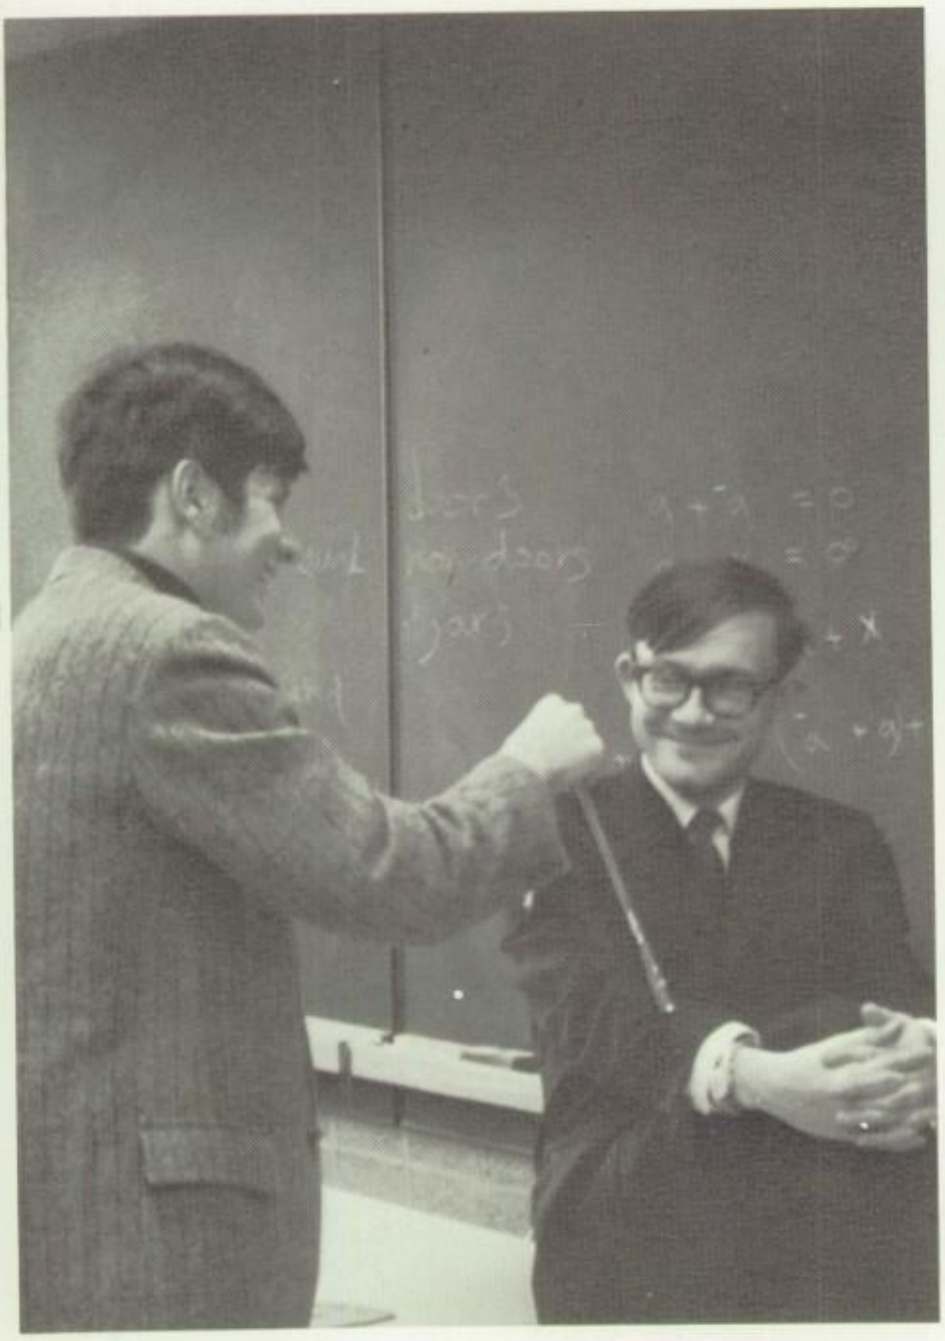
The Class of 1970 thanks Mrs. Lydia Stanley for everything.

That once-white station-wagon comes barrelling around the Dining Room with a mighty blast of whistle and the foam that was once a puddle flies; befuddled Monday students scramble for cover and Joe Vacanti zooms down that holey road and stops at Hamlin Hall. Dazed students unfold from the inner reaches, the doors disgorge their prey, and Joe is off to the boiler room.

Later in the day he is to be found prowling the buildings for pretty girls: call him a dirty old man and he says with that evil leer, "Yeah, and I can prove it." Then he walks away, leaving us shaking our heads in helpless laughter.

And when the heater in Streeter refuses to be cajoled into yielding its precious warmth to any mere senior, here comes Joe with a hammer and a "C'mon, sweetheart," and the room warms up. That's Joe Vacanti, always there to make us laugh when the world hangs heavy on our shoulders, and fixing things that are forever going wrong.

The Class of 1970 pays a warm tribute to Mr. Joseph Vacanti.



We shall never understand one another until we reduce the language to seven words.

The immense value of becoming acquainted with a foreign language is that we are thereby led into a new world of tradition and thought and feeling.

"There is absolutely no way."

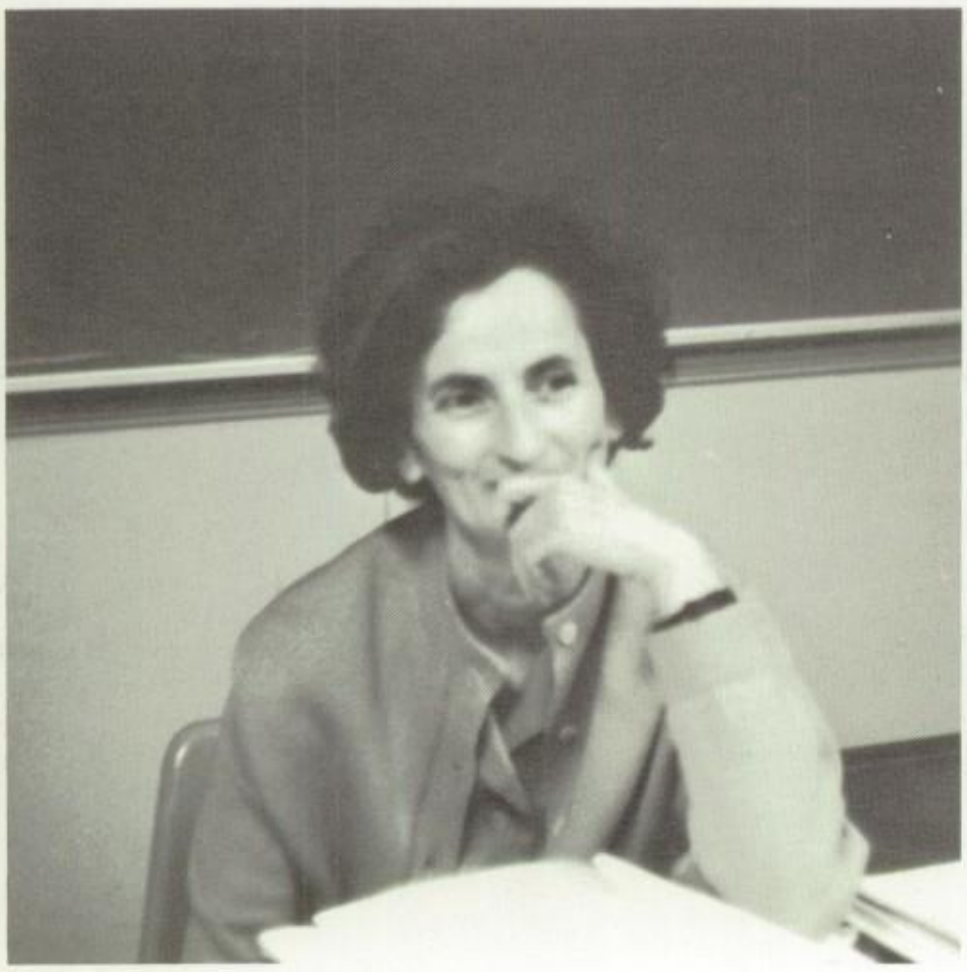
"Voici les joues."



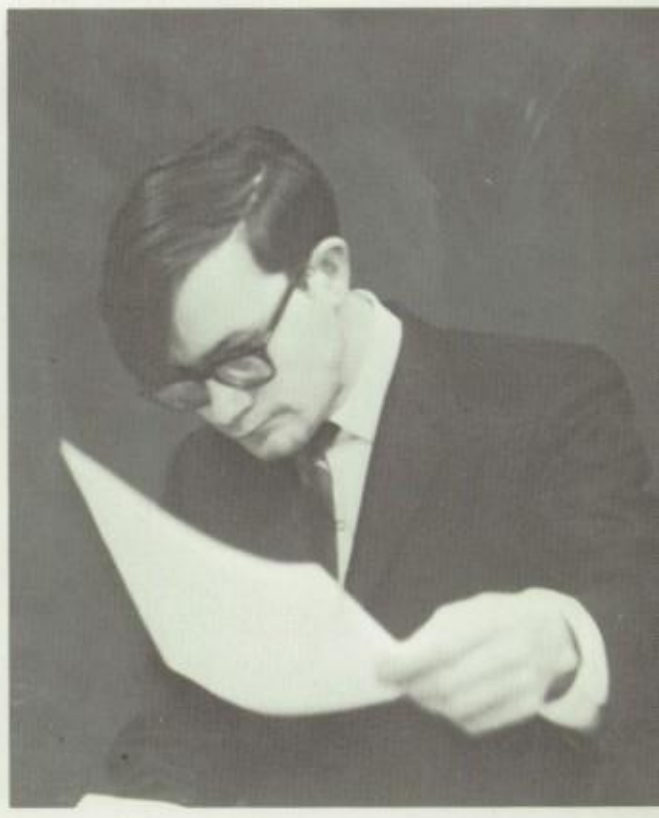
"It could only happen at Park."

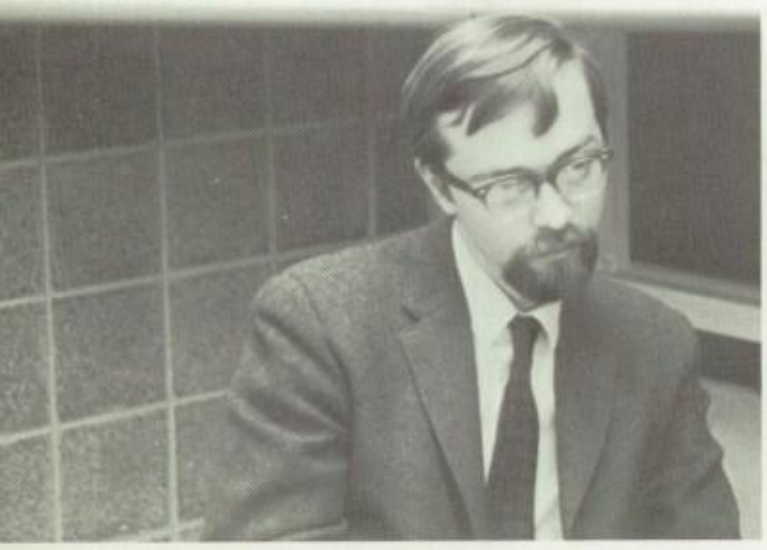
"I am one of you."

Mathematics, rightly viewed, possesses not only truth, but supreme beauty.

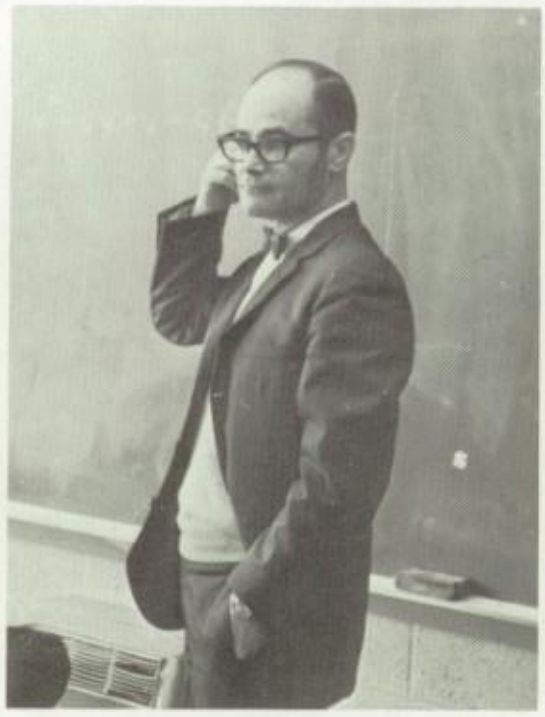
"Ay . . . Ay . . . Ay! I'm going to keel myself!"

" . . . and De Witt can stay outside in the get-away car."





"But why don't they laugh at my jokes? I must try harder, I must try harder."



"Let's see, I use to know the answer to this problem."

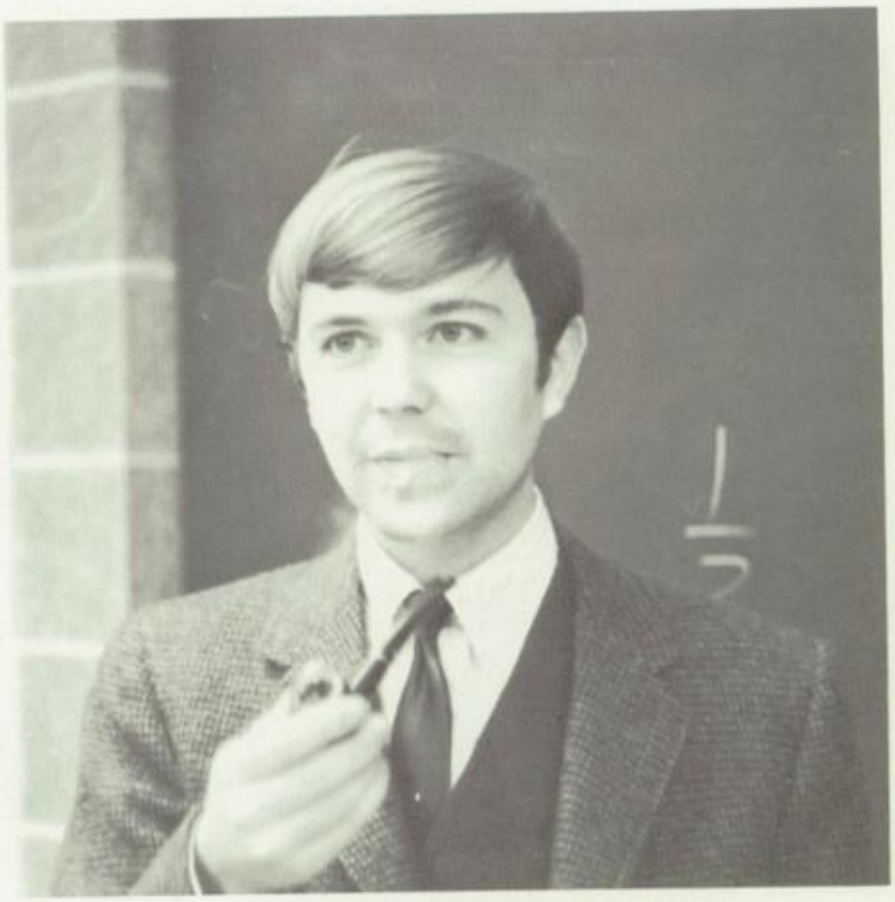
"There is no assignment, but . . ."

The proper and immediate object of Science is the acquirement, or communication, of truth.

"Oh, this is just a little business I run on the side."

"Okay Babeee."

"Of course I'm not going to be here tomorrow. I've got a council meeting."



"Speaking parenthetically . . ."

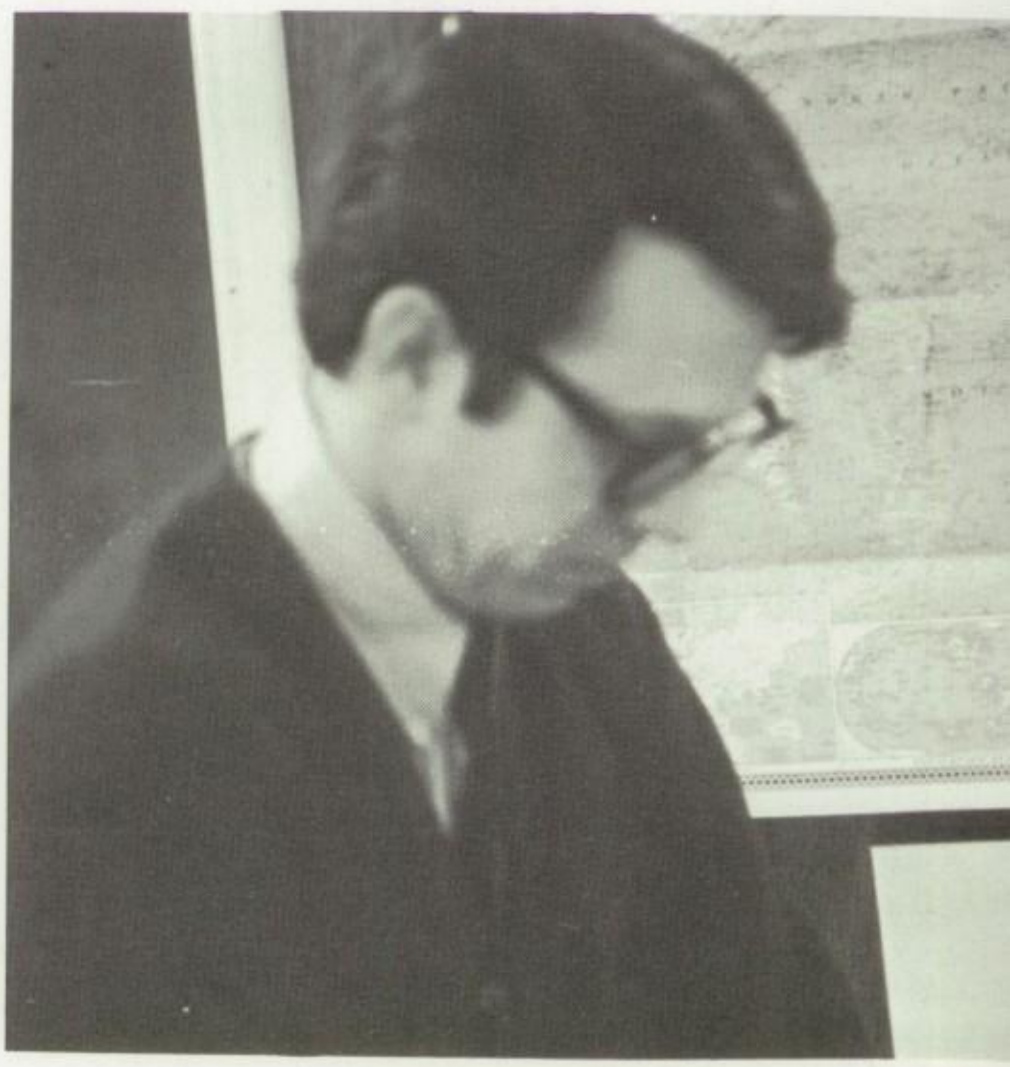
The subjects of history is the life of peoples and of humanity.

English literature is a flying fish. It is a sample of the life that goes on day after day beneath the surface; it is a proof of beauty and emotion exist in the salt, inhospitable sea.

"The plural of una is not unae."

"Maybe if I turn the lights off they will go away."

"According to Webster . . ."

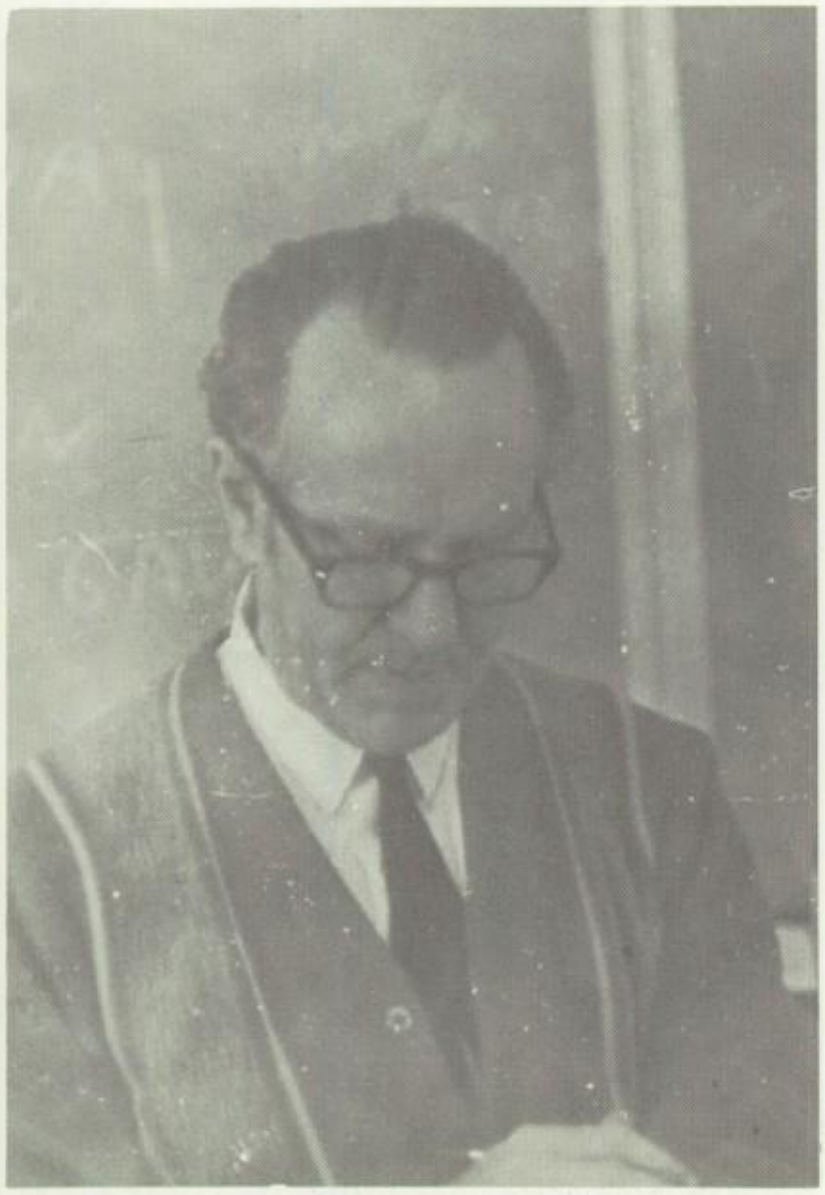


"HoJo's again?"

It is only through Art, and through Art only, that we can realize our perfection.

"Susie – you wrote me another story."

"Try using a saw."



"Now I want you all here for our next rehearsal."

"All right, children, get out of the kiln."

Music is the universal language of Mankind.

He marks not that you won or lost but how you played the game.

"Oh, this is so much fun!"

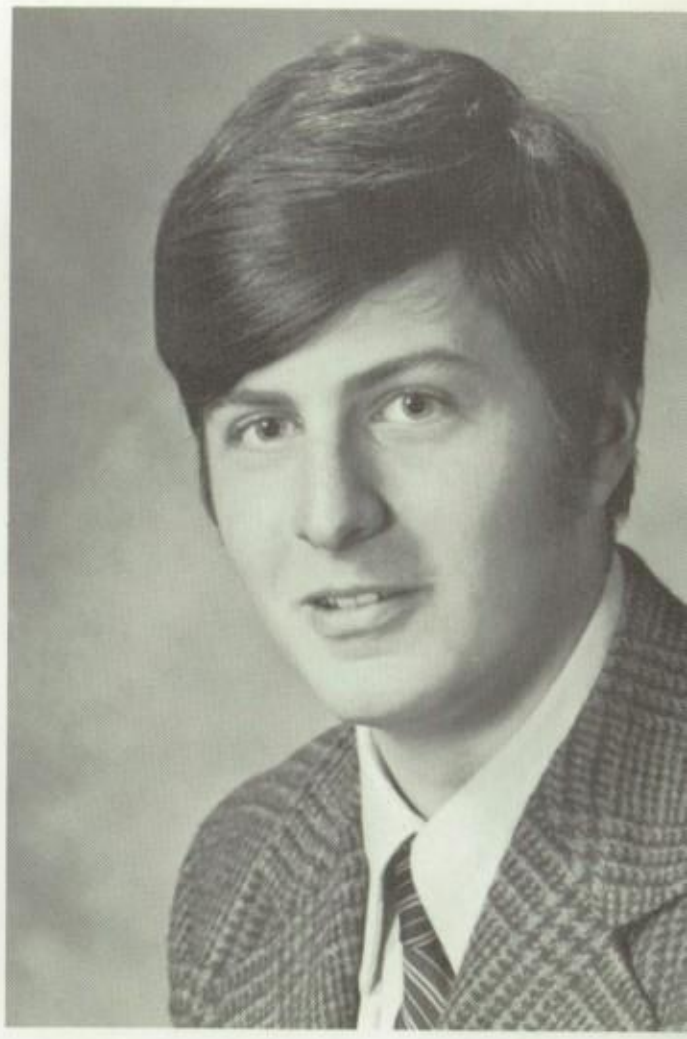
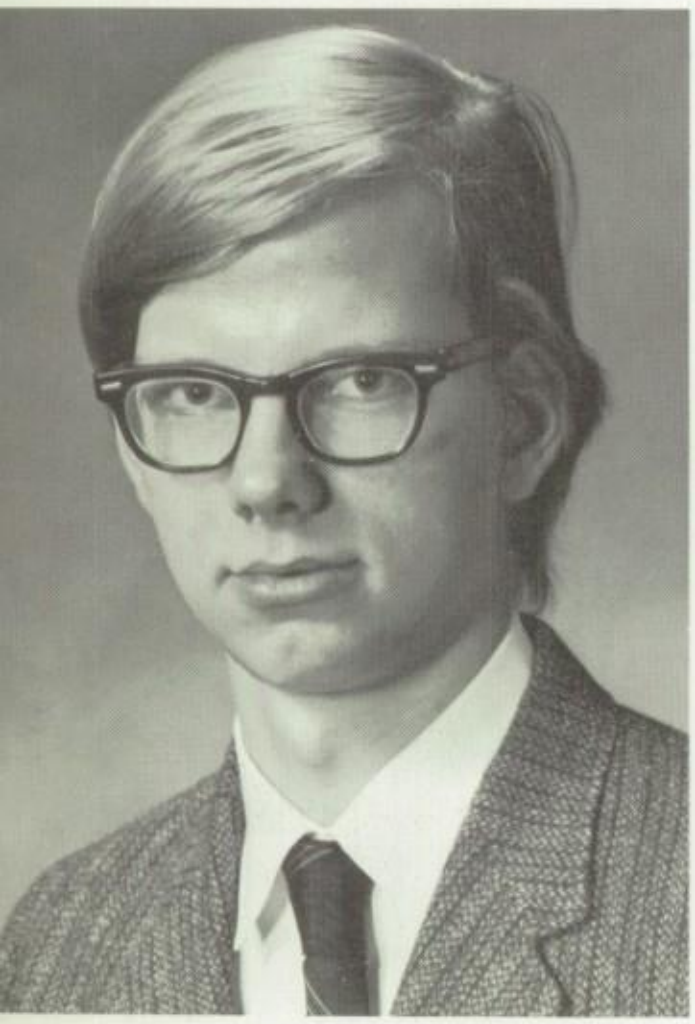
Adam, our politician, orator, scholar and competent leader whose ideals and ideas interpret the aims of Park School. His contributions to his fellow students are deep and plentiful.

Pope Ossum is now famous beyond campus. Quiet satire in the form of sermons and "thou shalt nots . . ." have kept us chuckling for days. His ping-pong game demonstrates his determination and love for sports. On a cold, rainy autumn evening, Adam can be seen diligently running his laps around campus. He's VERY faithful. You can always count on Adam, with an ever pensive look, to be laughing on the inside.



The final test of a leader is that he leaves behind him, in other people, the conviction and the will to carry on.



He possesses true wisdom, for he gets angry at nothing.

Every class has its share of dedicated, concerned, knowledgeable and dependable people. Very rarely are all these traits molded into one person, however. But in the class of 1970 there is Stephen. He has always contributed to Park completely, whether it be on numerous committees, council or other school organizations. A stranger at Park might see him as a quiet student dutifully going about the campus, yet all of us know that within Steve there lies a vast knowledge and awareness of what exists, and more important, a willingness to improve what must be changed. Strong in his beliefs, yet always listening to the opinions of others, Steve faces life with humor and determination.

Rhonda Lu Bachmann

A bird does not sing because he has an answer. He sings because he has a song.

Rhonda's abilities encompass a very large area. Not only is she an excellent vocalist and musician, but she is active in drama and dance. Always busy with her many activities, including teaching French to the lower school, we frequently see her looking for misplaced possessions, or running frantically to make a class on time.

Yet Rhonda Lu is also one of those rare, warm people who take the time to really understand others. She is very interested in topics of current events and we often hear her ask, "Well, how can I help?" To date, Rhonda can make a long list of her attempts and achievements in working for her fellow man.

Tina Joan Ball

She laughs till she cries. Tina is a bundle of inexhaustible good humor. We often see her talking (waving her hands emphatically) or displaying some of her creative talents. In addition to writing the lyrics to many of the folk songs she sings, Tina writes very good poetry.

She has shown that if one is uninhibited and honest with oneself, he can truly be happy in the world.

During a class lecture, Tina may have a laughing spell or burst out with the expression, "You wanna hear something really funny?"

She enjoys the stage and stole the show as Sabina in "The Skin of Our Teeth". Tina does her own thing and does it well.

It doesn't matter who you be — I'm a part of you and you're part of me.

Cabby, or Crab as she sometimes calls herself, has taken up temporary residence in the two by four Spark Closet, trying to get this year's yearbook out before next year. She has spent much time working diligently and competently in that side of Streeter, as well as numerous hours at home. But her competence does not lose out to her agility, alertness, and desire to excel, which are displayed by her vast achievements in athletics.

Cabby is sometimes seen storming around campus, but we know her best for her depth and sincerity. She loves poetry and enjoys sharing her favorite selections with her friends.

Cabby Bloss — warm, understanding, a bit tempermental, but always an earnest friend.

You give but little when you give of your possessions. It is when you give of yourself that you truly give.

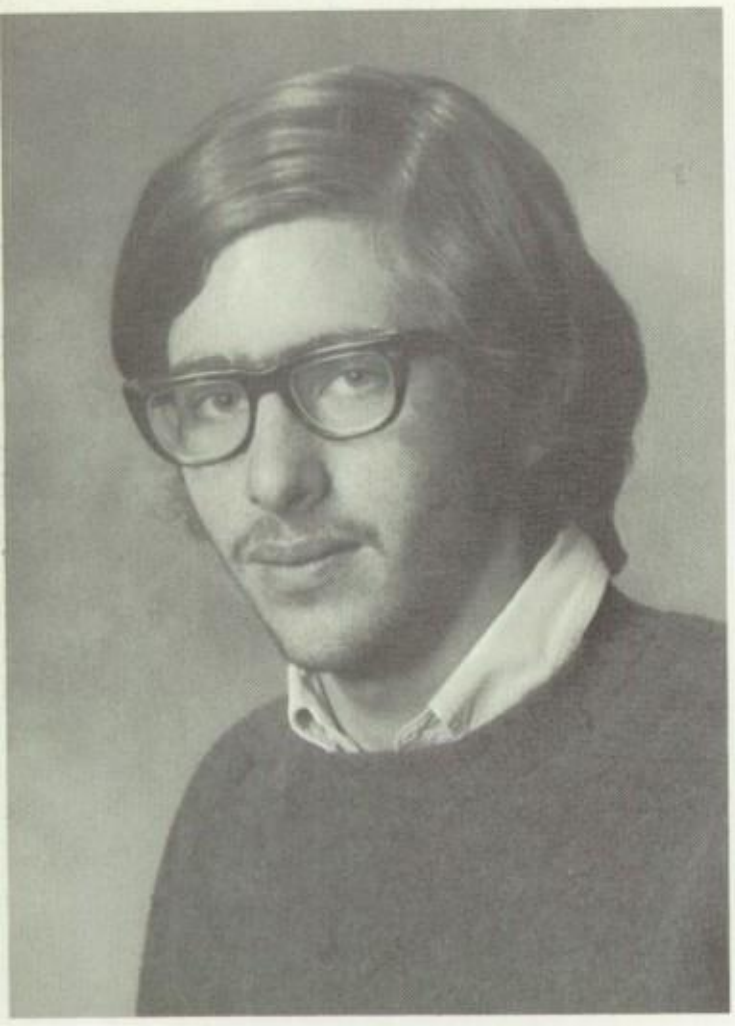
David Carter is one of those people who can often be found in the midst of a humorous situation. He is usually around when help is needed — he has been a great contributor to all our successful school dances. Dave appears to be a quiet person, but nevertheless known for his wild and tall tales.

He enjoys music, and plays a mean guitar in a band. He has made his cow, Bessie, a friend to many in Park School. His colorful driving habits and unusual imagination add welcome excitement to our days.

It is not what he has, nor even what he does, which directly expresses the worth of a man, but what he is.



There are two good things in life, Freedom of thought and Freedom of action.

Howard Steven Cohen

Howie possesses a certain sense of informality which makes all people feel comfortable and at ease when he is near. He has easily acquired many lasting and endearing friendships.

Howie may sit in a class quietly, but when he has something he feels must be said, he becomes quite outspoken. He is a concerned person and participates in many civic activities.

But he is not only responsible and likeable. He is funloving Howie, giving people sticky lollipop kisses and running through puddles with his knapsack on his way to the parking lot.

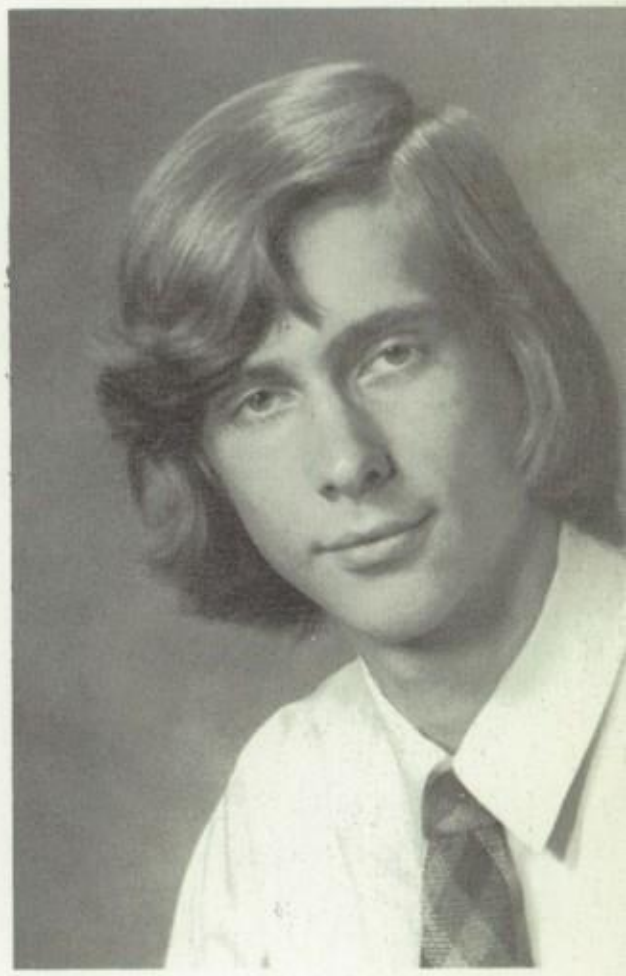
Chip's humorous antics bring laughter into our lives and sunshine to dreary days. He's tall. He's lean. And he's funny.

He has a Waldo "cool" which is unique. He likes people and is willing and ready to help others in any way he can. Being around him with his shaggy vest helps forget about personal problems and grievances. He smiles, gives irrelevant comments and one finds himself smiling right back.

Happiness is a treasured emotion and Chip possesses and spreads happiness wherever he goes.

Walter, Waldo, Chip . . . We're happy to know you and have you as our friend.



Those who bring sunshine to the lives of others can not keep it from themselves.

Elizabeth Malady Danahy

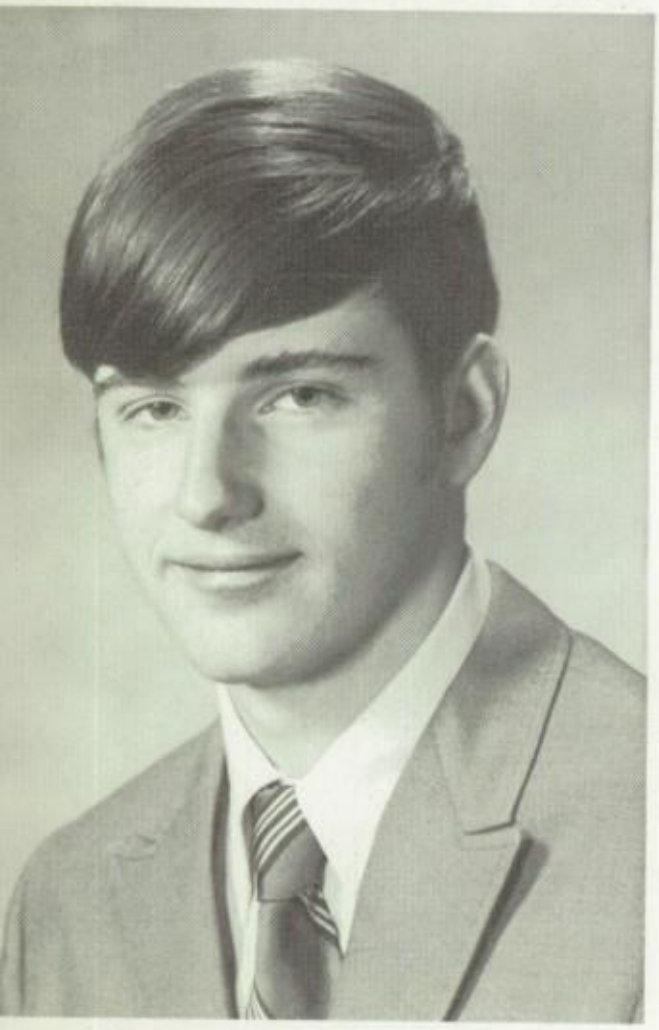
Missy . . . Liz . . . Danahy . . . famed for making through six years at Park School with little or no gym . . . Sarcasm with a smile . . . She is a girl who sticks up for what she truly believes in . . . "I think that's the most ridiculous thing I have ever heard!" She takes on all her many responsibilities with great strength – and usually the first one to finish a term paper early enough to laugh at those of us barely beginning. Missy is a person of great determination – and she will succeed in whatever she does in the years to come.

Gentle in manner, strong in performance.



The unexpected should always be expected when Ron is involved. His on the side comments in every situation, forever keep us laughing. His wit is indescribable, and often undetectable. How would we have ever made it through lunch without his "harmonious" voice to serenade us?

Ron has a certain sensitivity which instantly puts others at ease. At first glance he appears to be a quiet and sensitive person. But on taking a second look, one can see his true, humble, unpretentious, atomic self.

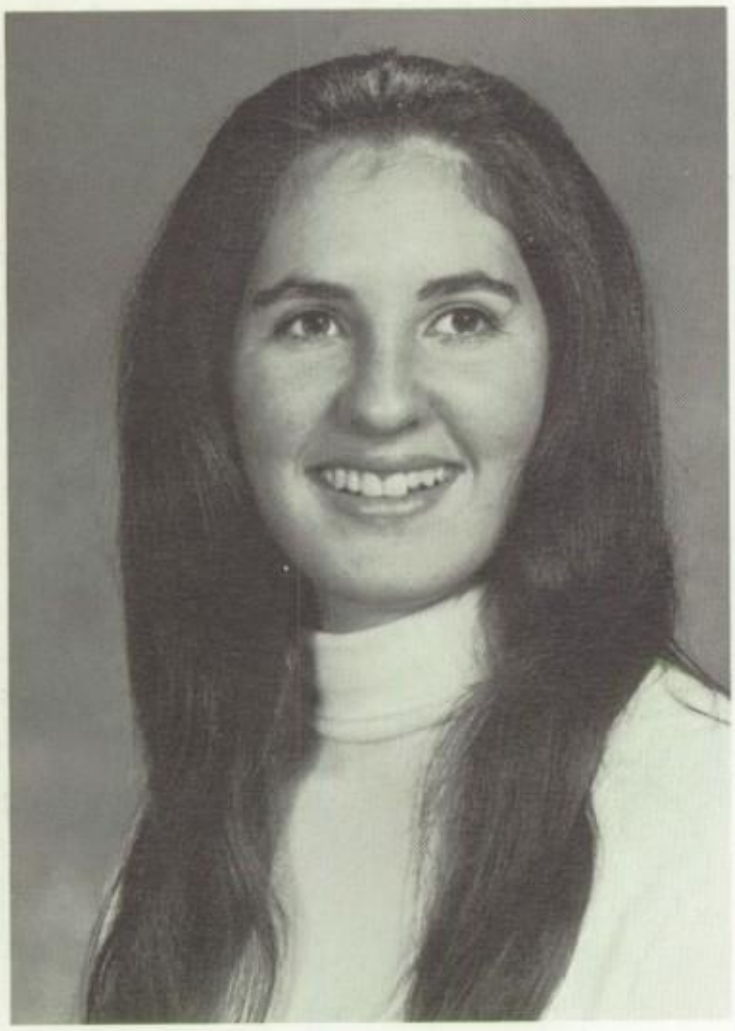
He speaketh not; and yet there lies a conversation in his eyes.



I did not hear the words you said. Instead, I heard the love.

It's recess on a Monday morning in the Spark office. Everyone is attempting to wake up and POW, in bursts Laaauuriee, exclaiming, "Oh, I had the best weekend". Suddenly the group comes alive anxious to share her romantic secrets and participate in her famous best talks.

The Hutch and the Spark room are Laurie's adopted homes this year. It is there that she has spent much time and energy working for the betterment of our school.

Through her extensive travels she has experienced and learned a great deal about herself as well as the world around her. One is assured of experiencing an enjoyable time when this bubbling and vivacious creature is present. Whether she is leaving campus, going to sports (?), or getting "A"'s in history class, Laaauuriee is the one we can turn to and trust in our time of speed.

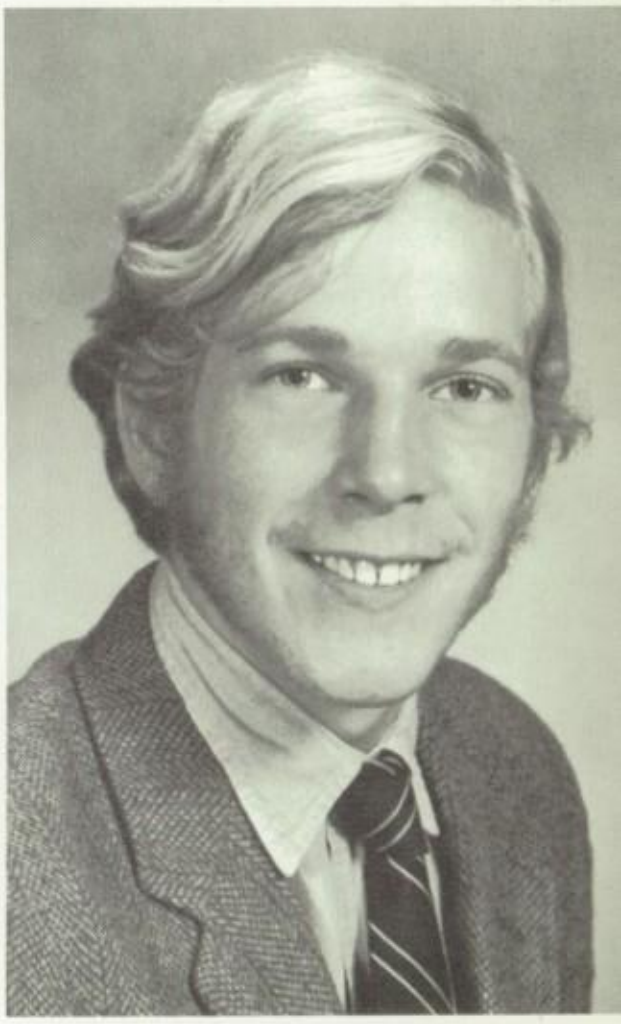
Peter Granger Dyett

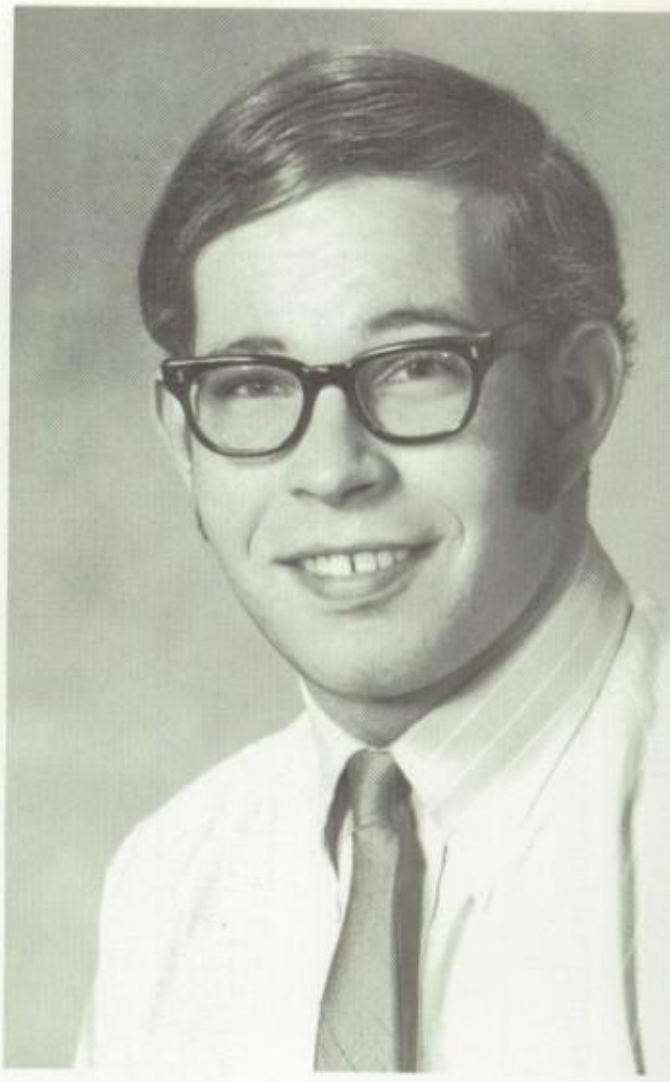
Peter is a true individual. Independent and deliberate, he holds steadfastly to his own beliefs and always supports them with great enthusiasm. Peter is recognized as a non-conformist unwilling to bend to established tradition; instead he chooses to explore and experience new ideas.

Distinguished by a mop of blond hair and a faded pair of jeans, he never hesitates to shatter the day's monotony with his unpredictable wit. His humor, "good looks" and genuine understanding reflect his outlook on life. Peter knows that life is too serious not to be faced with a smile and a challenge.



Everything is sweetened by risk.

Marc Brian Feuerstein



A.F.S. 4; Primavera 3, 4; Football 3, 4; Basketball 3, 4; Track 3, 4.

Marc is a guy of corrections. Sometimes to the point of stubbornness, he has the courage to stick up and fight for his beliefs. Marc is the same strong person on the basketball court. Because he has the will to win, he plays a good game and is a high scorer. But if his team should lose, Marc shrugs his shoulders and says "Next time."

Marc is also well-known for his wit and playful put-ons. Marc always keeps his classes from becoming dull and to us Marc is a special person, a person whose very presence suggests security and compassion.

A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays and confident tomorrows.

Julie is always around when we need her. Countless times she has anonymously helped to decorate the gym, or bake cookies for a dance. Her extra effort always makes the difference in a job well done.

Julie never thinks twice about helping others. She bubbles over with enthusiasm when a friend brings her happy news, and she is pensive and helpful when given a problem.

Julie, also, is the land person who seeks out new Park Schoolers with a warm smile, helping them to get into the swing of things. And we are grateful for all these unaccredited deeds.

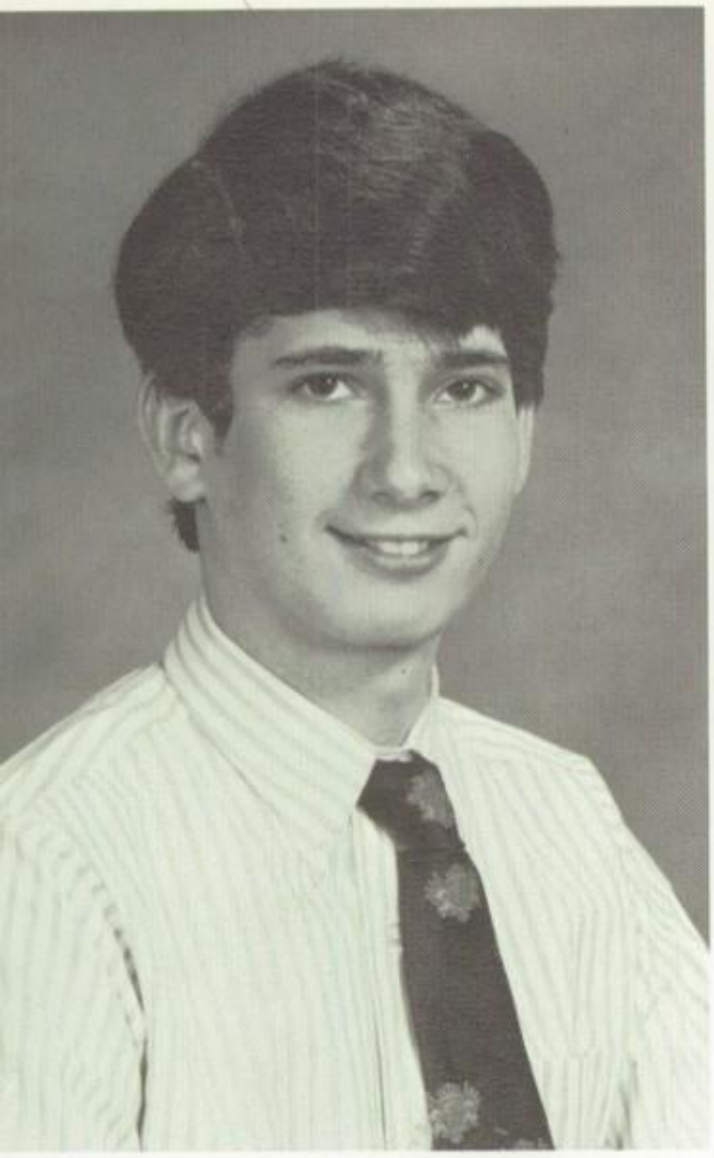
Real joy comes not from ease or riches or from the praise of men, but from doing something worthwhile.

Bradley Howard Hirsh



A man's friendships are one of the best measures of his worth.

Brad is real character! His interest in people is clearly outlined by his ability to strike up with a conversation with anyone. Whether the talk is about an after game party or a history test, Brad is sure to be interesting. His famous line "I'm only kidding!" is often heard in the hall during recess as he performs one of his daily jokes.

Brad is everywhere at once during the school day but often cannot be found when one needs him (just ask anyone in the sports department.) He is sometimes restless and is constantly looking for a little mischief to get involved in. We can think back, smile and remember some of his fantastic predicaments.

Brad, a card, a wig, a joker, a friend.

The girl with the unrelenting cool . . . Susie is an individual of commanding respect and deep sincerity. She never hesitates to state her feelings on any subject, but yet one can easily perceive that within her mind must lie many sensitive and personal thoughts. Her seriousness of purpose is reflected many times in her fresh and beautiful spirit. Susie is the calm in any storm and, although she will always take time to offer her help to a friend, her main goal is to satisfy the questions of her mind. Susie wastes few words, yet expresses herself with intellectual maturity. We recognize in Sue a desire of real happiness and a quest to be herself.

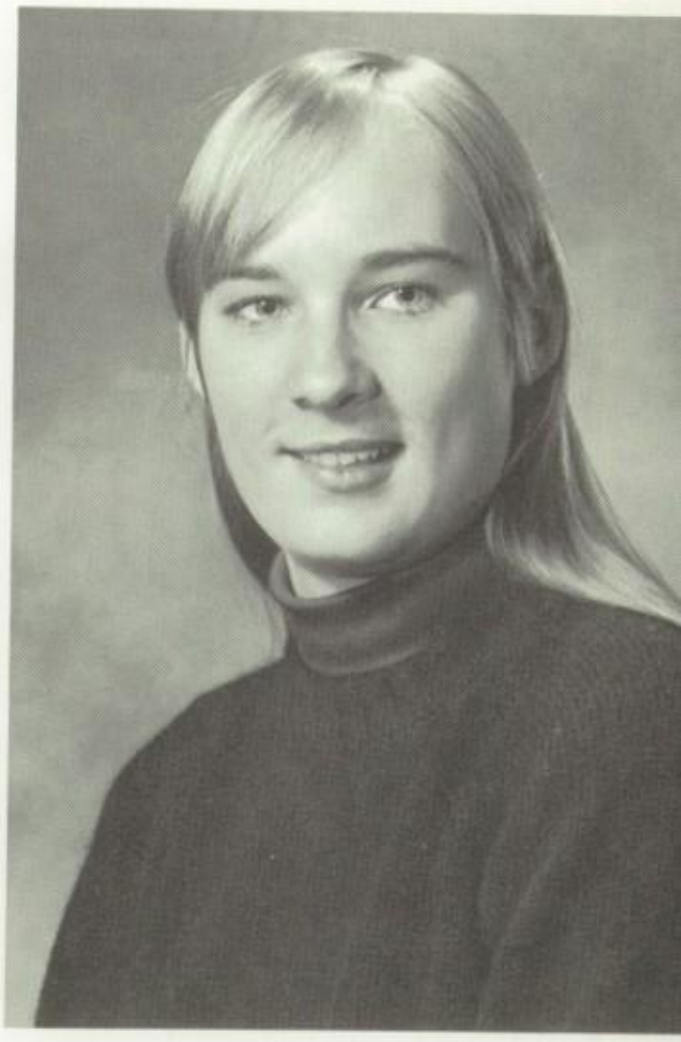
The field hockey game is tense. There are only thirty seconds left to play and the score is tied 0 to 0. Our opponents are in possession of the ball and they attempt to score, but it's saved thanks to one of the best goalies around, Janet Jarvis.

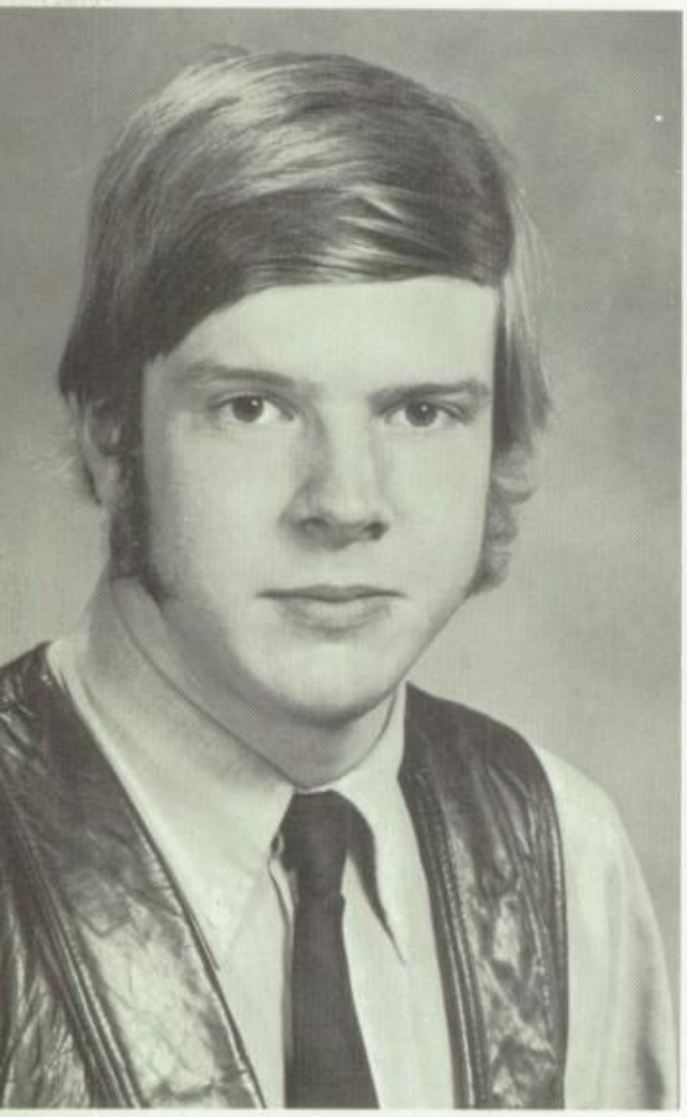
She is known throughout the school for her versatile sport abilities as well as her willingness to work for others.

She has taught many the meaning of good sportsmanship and consequently, her teammates have elected her as their captain in several sports.

Although J. J. has sometimes lost her way to some of her classes this year, she has shown her outstanding concern for people as Vice-President of the A.F.S. and as a very active member of Face-It.



And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter and sharing of pleasures.



His brow is wet with honest sweat, he earns what e'er he can, and looks the whole world in the face, for he owes not any man.

A cowboy atop his horse galloping across the endless prairies of Park School, stopping to say "Howdy Ma'am." Or a monkey hanging from rafters of some gym while putting up lights and getting kicked out of German to take them down . . . Sometimes he's a printer making tickets for a dance. Or he's a truck driver bouncing up and down over the potholes of Park's road. A chauffeur for the boys going to hockey practice. And every minute Duncan shows us his sense of humor, always being most considerate, always being amiable.

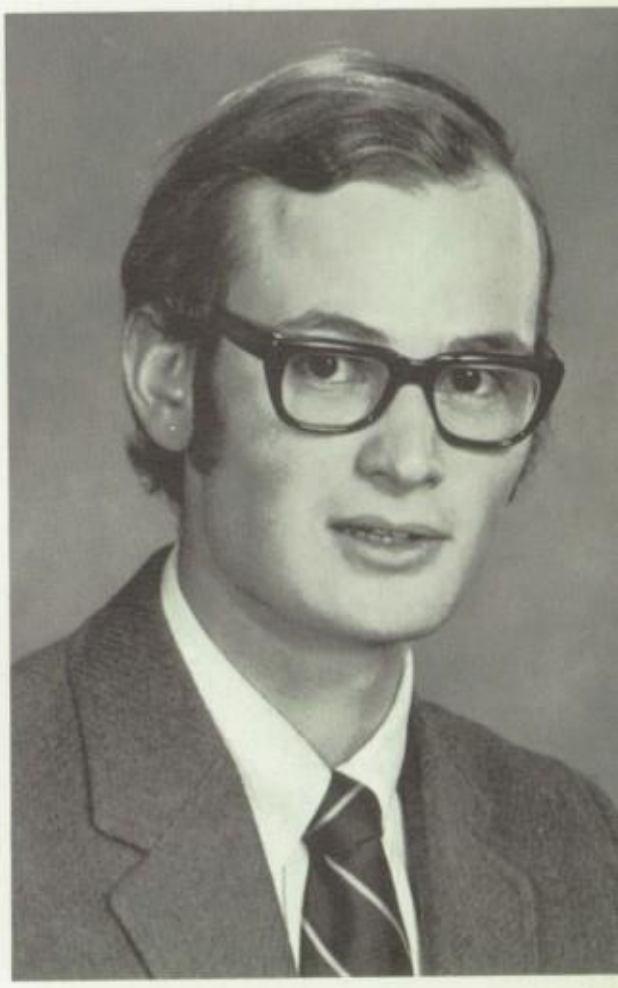
Morrie Krasner

There has been many a class project when we have run to the mighty financial whiz, Morrie, for help.

Park is a place which always needs volunteers, and to volunteer you have to be a loyal Park Schooler. And that's Morrie, loyal to the end and always around when needed. And who is the spectator at football games, through rain, snow and sleet? Morrie, of course!

We look up to Morrie's ability to really work hard, to reach his goals and we may say that he is well rewarded for his endless effort.



He only earns his freedom and existence who daily conquers them a new.

Over the last few years we have seen Sue outgrow her shyness (who wouldn't be stunned to quiet on first sight of Park?). Today she is the kooky Alice running down the halls to say, "Guess what?" She has shown her involvement with the community by tackling the job of A.F.S. Chairman. She has run the committee completely, and has brought to it many and interesting activities.

Sue, with her bright smile and cheerful voice, always has a pleasant word for everybody. And she always has an open ear and heart, which she extends to everyone.

Love gives naught but itself and takes naught but from itself.

The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart.

Jerry's great lust for adventure is dominant in his character. His time-worn army jacket tells us that he is nearby. Taking a sincere outlook on life Jerry strives to get all he can from a new experience. His contagious love of a good time always seems to draw us into the fun he is having.

A strong willed individual, Jerry is a part of all that he comes in contact with.

Michael Arthur Lewin

Michael, one of the most realistic and logical members of our class, has a nack for taking everything in stride. When Michael wants to do something his determination carries him through flawlessly.

Michael seems to laugh at just the right time. For instance the way he looks at us as he walks into History first thing Monday morning.

Whether he is listening to Jimmy Hendricks or running his fingers through his mustache, Michael is always with us.

Joey – a bubbling bursting girl of unceasing enthusiasm. A girl of unmatchable love for everyone. Her popularity is evident – she was elected Co-Captain of the cheerleaders for her junior year and when Joey is out there cheering, people look and listen to her. Joey dances. She is the dance – every movement she makes blends with her own internal rhythm.

Joey is most interested in people – in attaining a communication and understanding among all men. She has started a human relations club at Park to promote this.

Joey – pretty, funny, friendly, and convinced that all people can love and understand each other, as she does.

The windows of my soul I throw open to the sun.

Kerry Arthur Madden

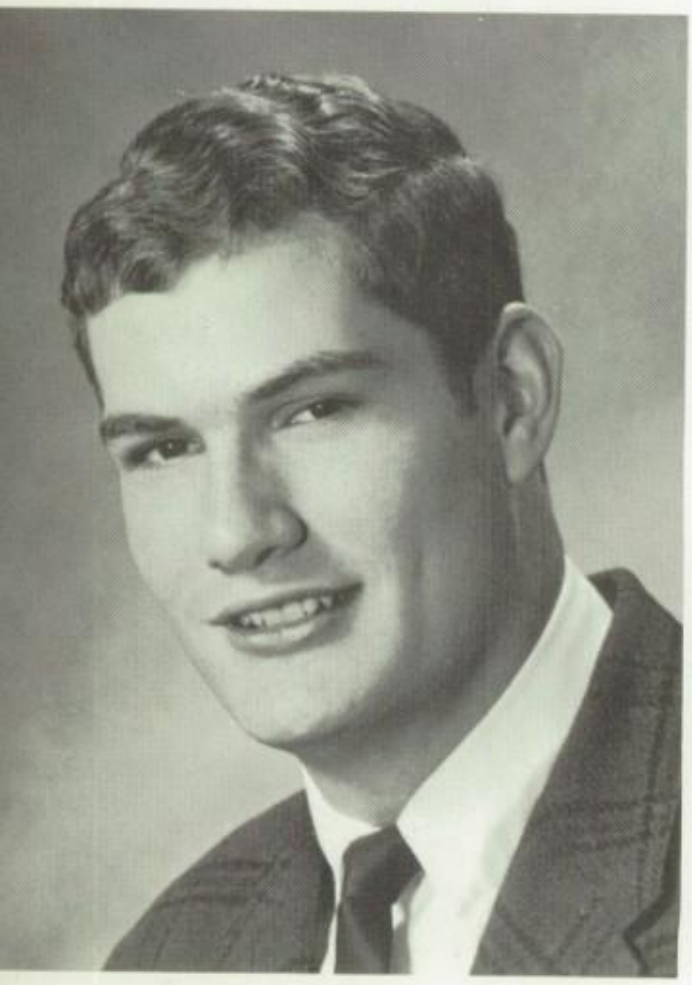
Varsity Soccer 1, 2, 3; Ice Hockey 1, 2, 3; Track 1, 2, 3; A.F.S. Co-Chairman 3; Council Treasurer 3.

Long, tall Kerry; his lightning grin, empty pop machine, mysterious class meeting absences (George and Toot's), new trend in clothing, blocked pocks and four-footed friends are evidence of his unique style of life.

Over the years this lanky blond has made his presence made in many ways. On both field and rink he has been a determined competitor, in the classroom he has added enthusiasm and wit, and everywhere he has shown his warmth and humor.

Kerry has spent the majority of the time of his senior year in Lebanon, exploring, experiencing and learning. We missed him and are indeed happy to have him back, for in his inimitable way, Kerry has given much of himself to Park and to us all.

I am the master of my faith, and the captain of my soul.



Big Doug, our All-American Boy. This athlete has become the secret sweetheart of many red-blooded girls. Be he playing basketball, football or baseball, Doug displays the essential fine qualities of determination and a sincere desire to win the game.

Doug carries his desire to succeed into the class room where he becomes an integral factor.

To some students, he represents the rough tough guy with his proclamations of, "I'll flatten ya" or "Monkey", but to his close friends he is a guy of strong beliefs and an unusual sense of humor.

Like an overly anxious athlete, Weezie moves among us, dark hair shining, dark eyes watchful, catching us off guard with a taunt, a gem of quiet wisdom, or a lance of sharp humor, integral, yet aloof. The paradox of Weezie is best perceived through her two greatest skills, driving her Mustang and working in her newly confirmed field of Art.

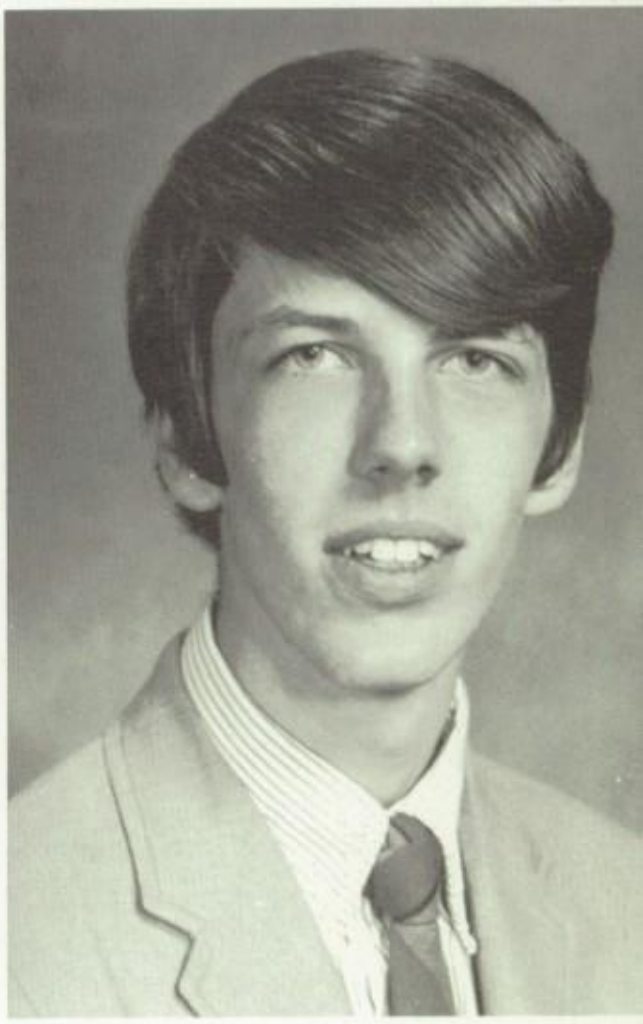
Stephen Richard Miner

How does one describe the indescribable? Everything about him screams out wit. He is the kind of person who fades into the shadows until the school bell rings, and then . . . he's nowhere to be found (he's probably at a cigarette sale at Hengerers). Who else but Pedro would ask the Spark staff to make mention of his not so secretive secret exodus to waiting havens in the parking lot? Who else but Steve has the answer to any question except the one posed at the moment?

Many of his afternoons are spent in the student lounge serenading his women admirers or sitting in a secluded corner strumming his guitar and meditating. The Pedro underneath is a poet, a writer, and a sensitive person.

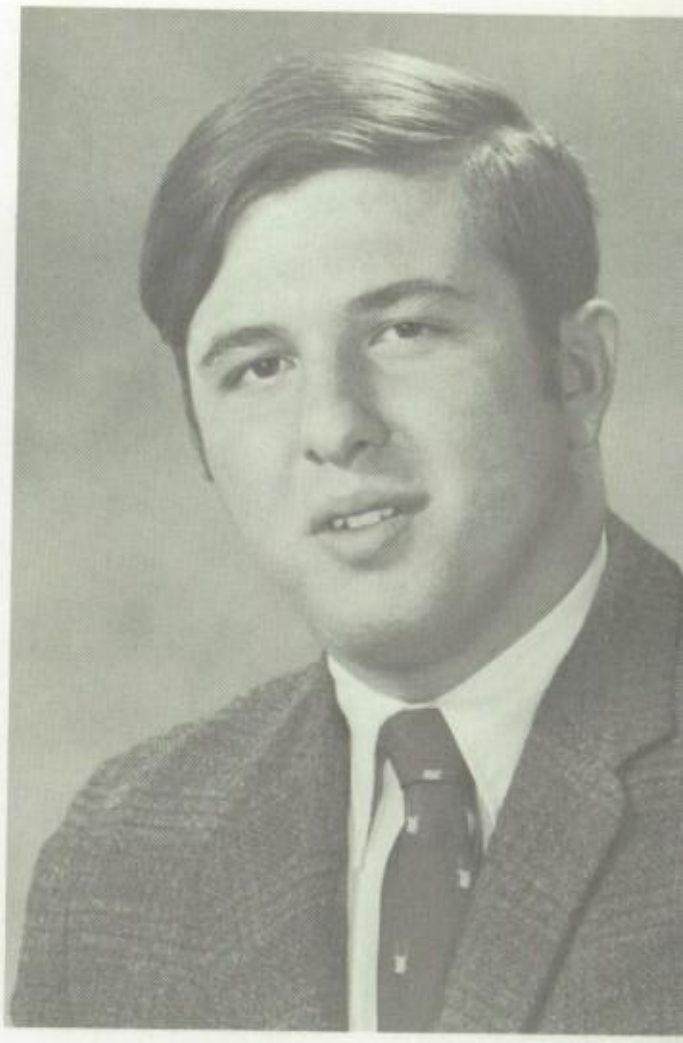


When the mind's free, the body's deliberate. The tempest in my mind doth from my senses take all feeling else save what beats there.

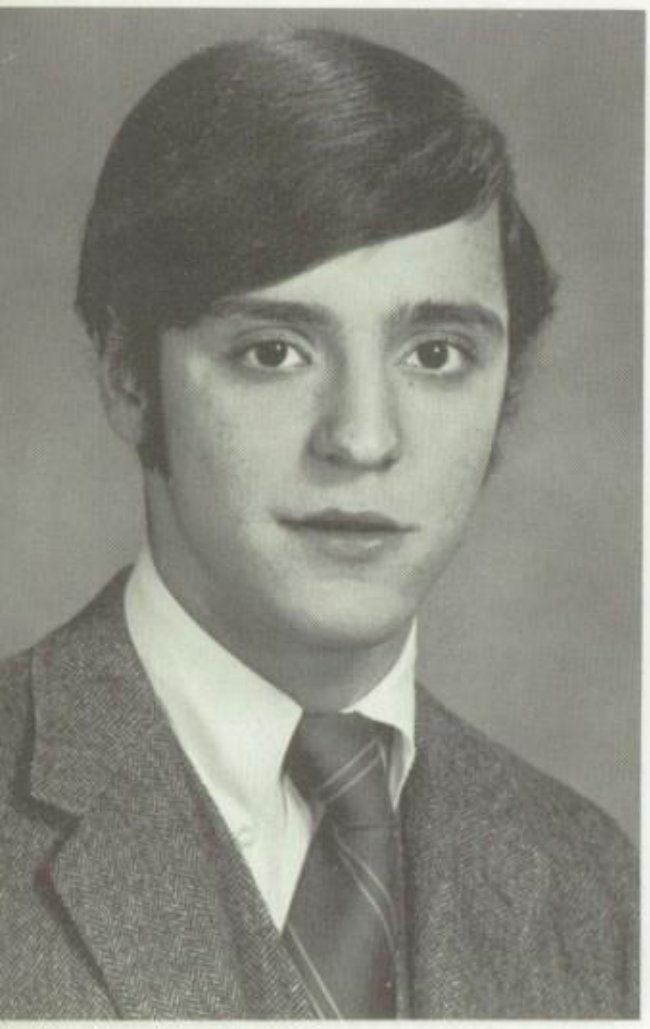
Donald Francis Pulli

Dining Room Committee 4; Football 3, Co-Captain 4; Hockey 3, Co-Captain 4; Track 3, 4.

Big Don is an easy-going West Senecan individual who is always willing to listen to people no matter what they have to say. He enjoys a good time, and has been given the award for our "Beer Man of the Year". He is a trustworthy man about campus who enjoys the pond atmosphere. Don is a hard person to anger, yet he becomes a vicious and devoted "tough guy" when he gets on the hockey rink or on the football field. Don's appetite for food, drink and company has become a landmark in the annals of Park School history.



Deeds, not words, shall speak for me.



A black leather jacket and an umbrella, plus a mischievous grin, all equal Frank. Whether freely rambling around the halls, or in class, his easy going, imaginative personality makes one always expect the unexpected at any time.

Although characterized as being quiet and reflective, he is also typified by his spur of the moment craziness.

Frank's pensiveness indicates his depth of character while his care-free, crazy spirit proves him definitely an unique individual of Park.

Cathy is like a little, restless elf. So full of energy and excitement, she can never sit still or keep quiet for more than four seconds. She is charming when embarrassed – we laugh at her as she puts her hands over her face and says, "I'm so embarrassed I could die!" Her enthusiasm is unvarying. As a cheerleader, her spirit is contagious.

Cathy is a delightful friend. Never afraid to share her innermost thoughts with people, she gets all the rewards of a trusting nature. And we can trust her too.

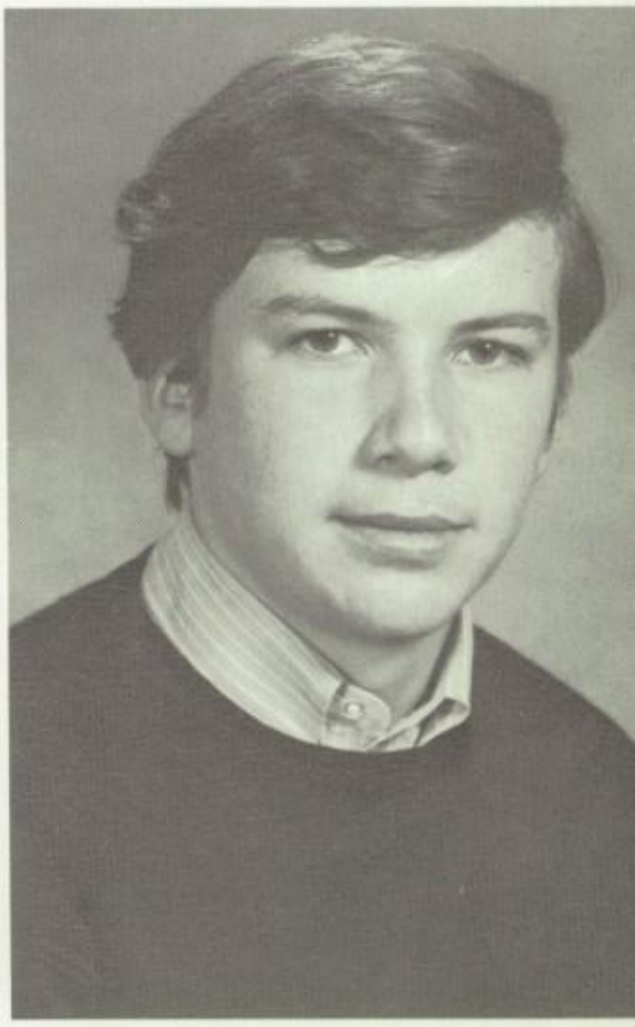
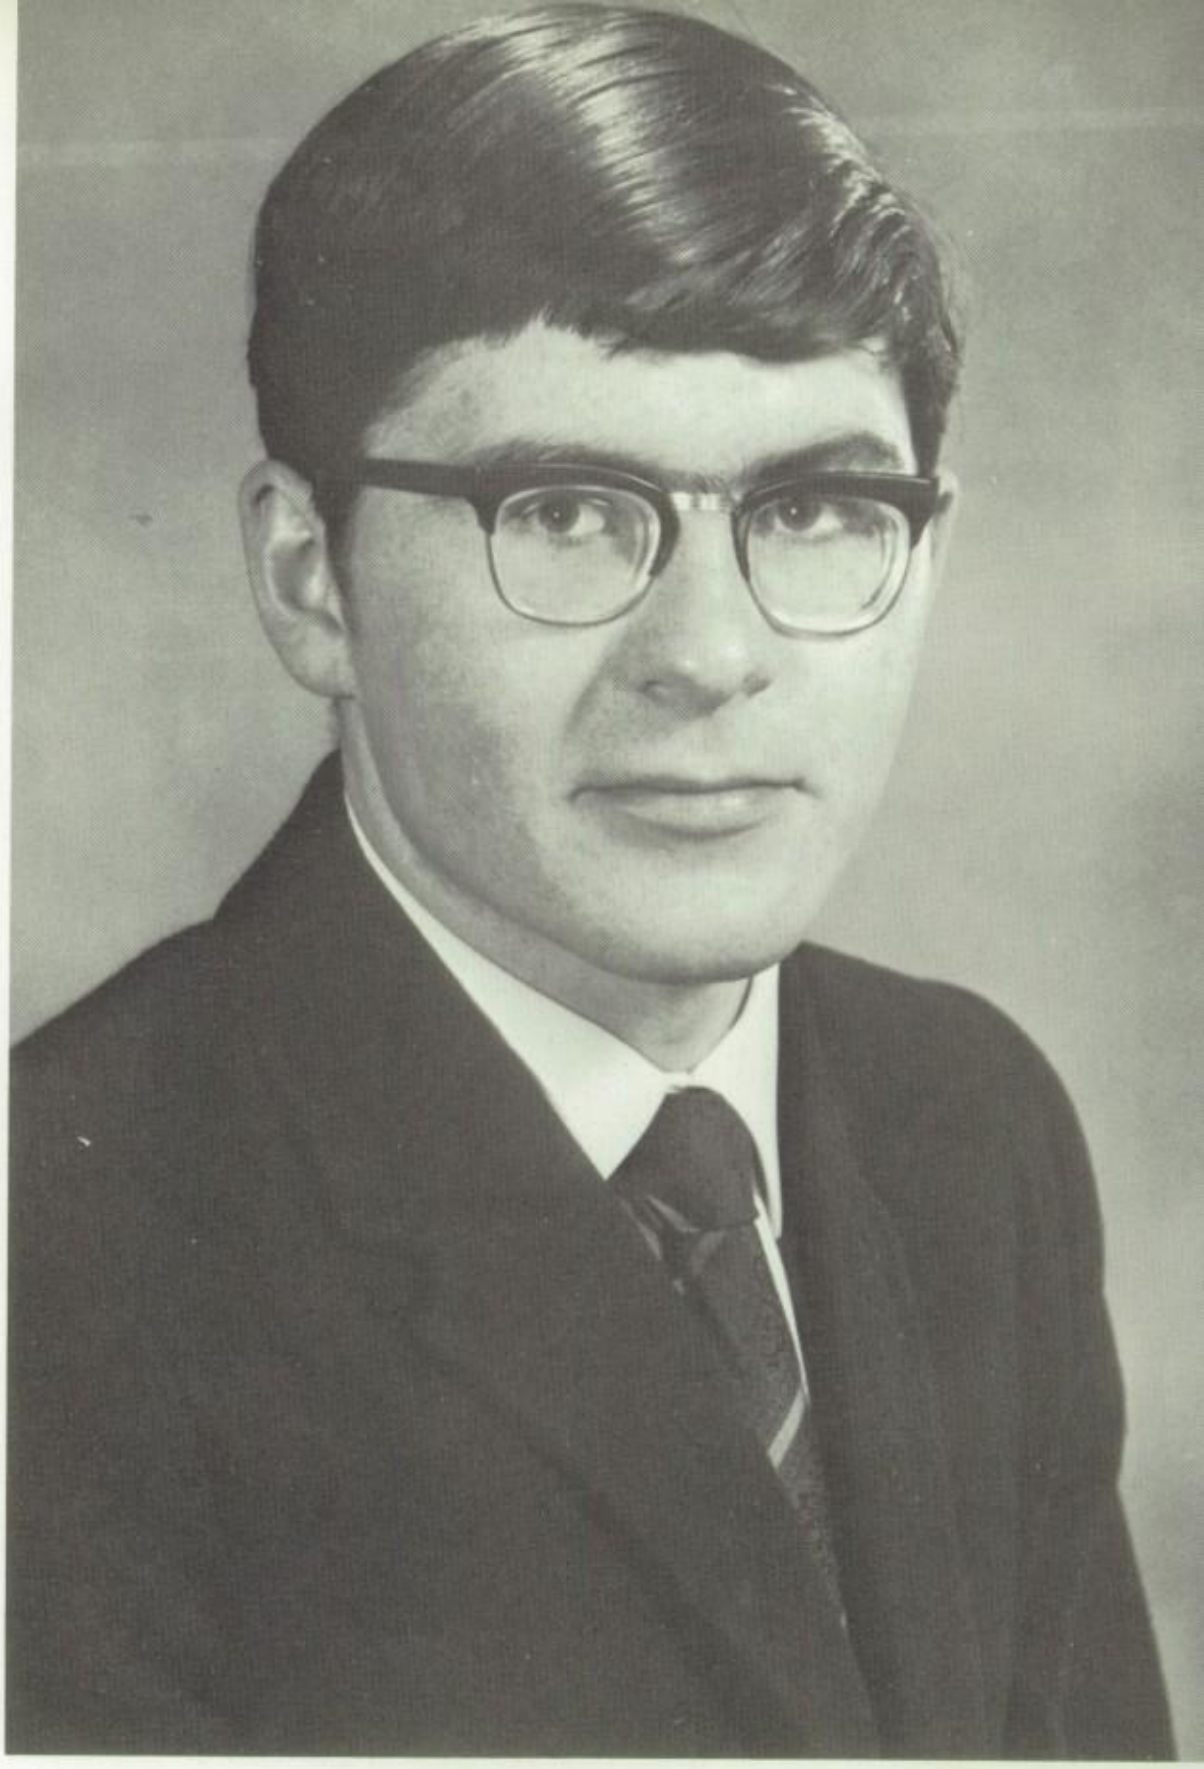
Gordon Brian Ross

Streaking down Fruehauf in a red MGB, he turns the corner tight, and maintaining his entry speed even over the potholes, he jerks to a halt. The driver's door swing open, and out pops our subject in a checked cap, three-piece suit and cowboy boots. A half-moon smile extends from ear to ear as he pulls his infamous hat down to touch the top of his brow. All in one flowing movement the door is slammed and his cigarette savoured, finished, jettisoned into the snow. He walks briskly to his one morning class.

His philosophy is too complex for full comprehension in such a short description, but he sums it up by "You never know 'till you try," – "there's a seat belt for everybody," – or "I'm gonna' beat him senseless."



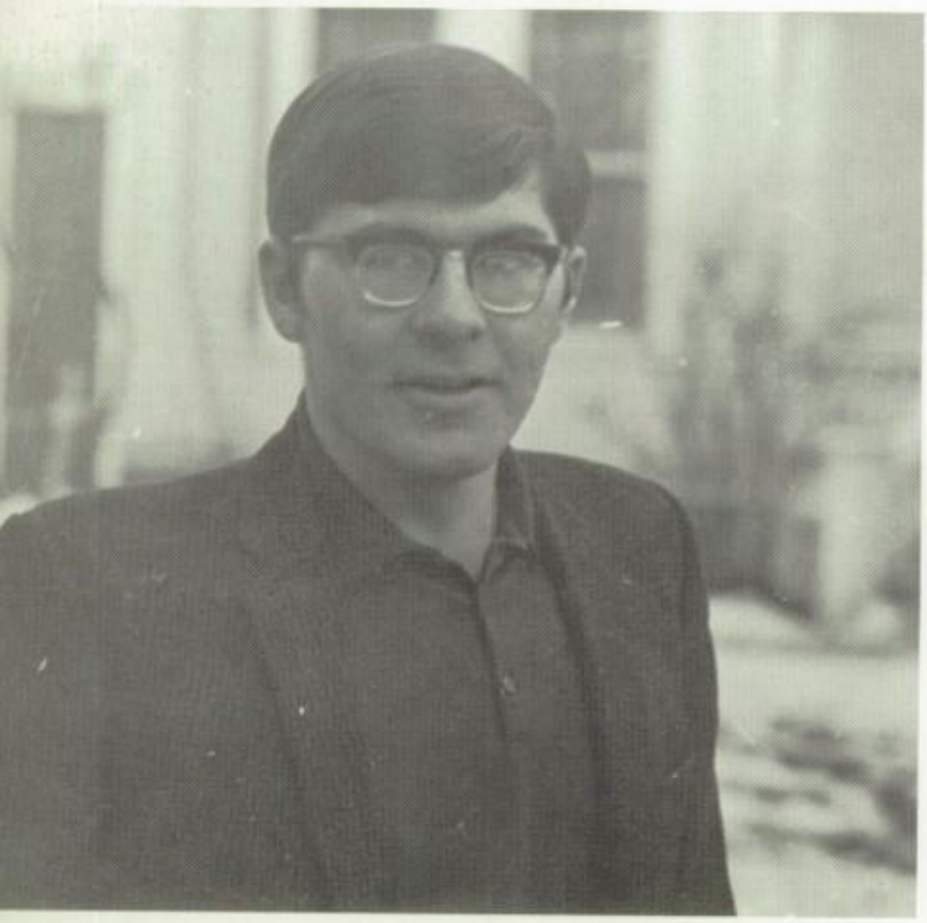
He only is a well-made man who has a good determination.



Brian Rowe is Park School's latest import all the way from Northern Ireland. Not only has he brought us his friendship, but he has brought us leprechauns, pots of gold, and the luck of the Irish.

Brian sits back and seems to be taking us all in. One cannot judge from the look on his face whether is amused or bewildered by what he sees. And Brian very good-naturedly replies in the affirmative to the question so often asked, "Do you speak English?" Whether on the ski slopes for the first time, astounding his classmates with his scientific knowledge or trying to make Irish coffee Irish, Brian must admit that his year has been an experience.

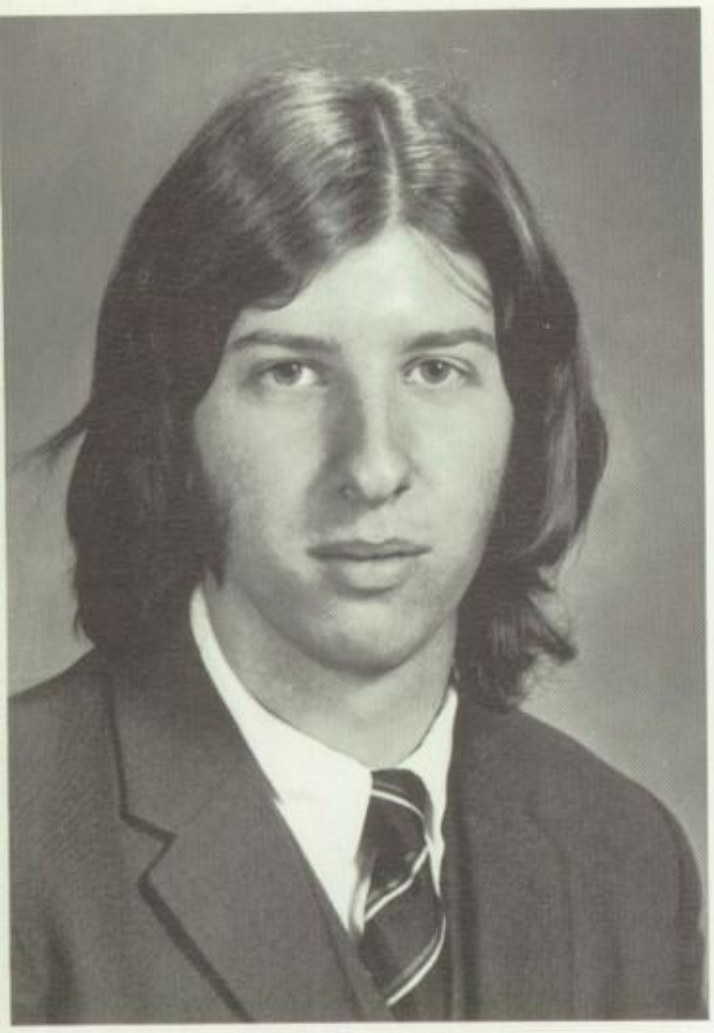
Glee Club 4; A.F.S. 4; Orc 4; Soccer 4; Skiing 4; Track 4.



In many ways the saying "know thyself" is not well said. It is more practical to say "know other people."

Walk together, talk together all ye peoples of the earth, then, and only then shall we have peace.

Brian Ramsey Rowe



It is the nature of a great mind to be calm and undisturbed.

Christopher Dawson Sapp

Man of letters. He closes his eyes and Christopher Robin and his drums create a world of their own. He's a very opinionated fellow and is not easily deterred from the direction in which he is heading. Christopher, the composer, musician and the rational man. Strong in mind as well as in body . . . He sings "Spoonful" with that composed English accent and a girl sighs. He has been described as a ginger, considerate (always certain to say "thanks for the ride") and literate (often exclaiming "It's high time.")

Martina Vicenta Scarlett

Meme, Martina Vicenta for short, is one of those few people left who truly cares about others and is not afraid to show it. She is always willing to help a friend in need. Always unselfish with time, she gives all that she can for others.

Meme has an extraordinary talent for making people laugh, even on a gloomy day. Just as easily, she uses her imagination and ability to brighten up a dull gym, and make it as lively looking as the people in it. Meme truly is a ray of sunshine and mirth!

Keep your face to the sun and the shadows will fall behind.

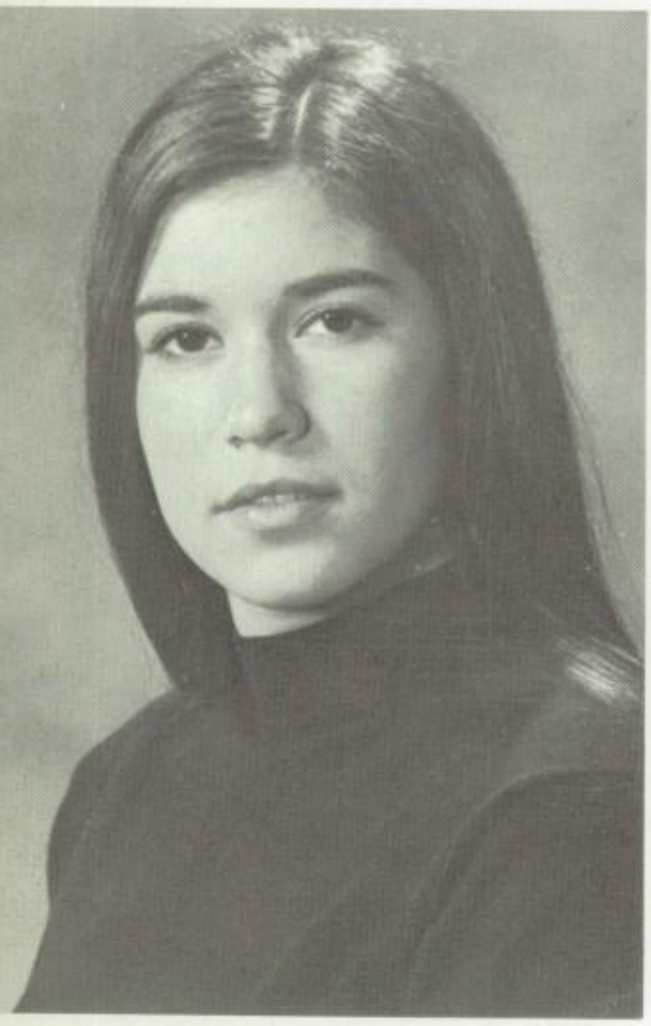
Hats, hats . . . rain hats . . . straw hats . . . floppy hats . . . small hats . . . and underneath them . . . Heidi. She's the girl we see at the "senior" table every day on the extreme right of the dining room laughing with her classmates, making plan's and inserting her sarcastic remarks whenever possible.

Heidi feels that only through involvement can one achieve satisfaction. Frequently after lunch we find her debating about which committee meeting to attend when they are all scheduled for the same time.

Heidi is determination. When she decides to do something, all may rest assured that the task will be completed. Add this to her will to defend her beliefs to the end and we have Heidi.

There is nothing so contagious as pure openness of the heart.



From the depths of her 4′ 11″ frame comes the Sidell humor so famous around the campus. Reggie's realism and practicality have been an important part of the Business Board, but there is always time for one of her well-known or impersonations. Reggie can always be depended on to appear in some outrageous costume on Halloween or Country Fair. It's all a part of Reggie's character. Sometimes we see her racing around in her Firebird or carrying her skis (twice the size of her) to the bus. An elfish grin and sparkling eyes only tell us that Reggie is concocting one of her little "plots."

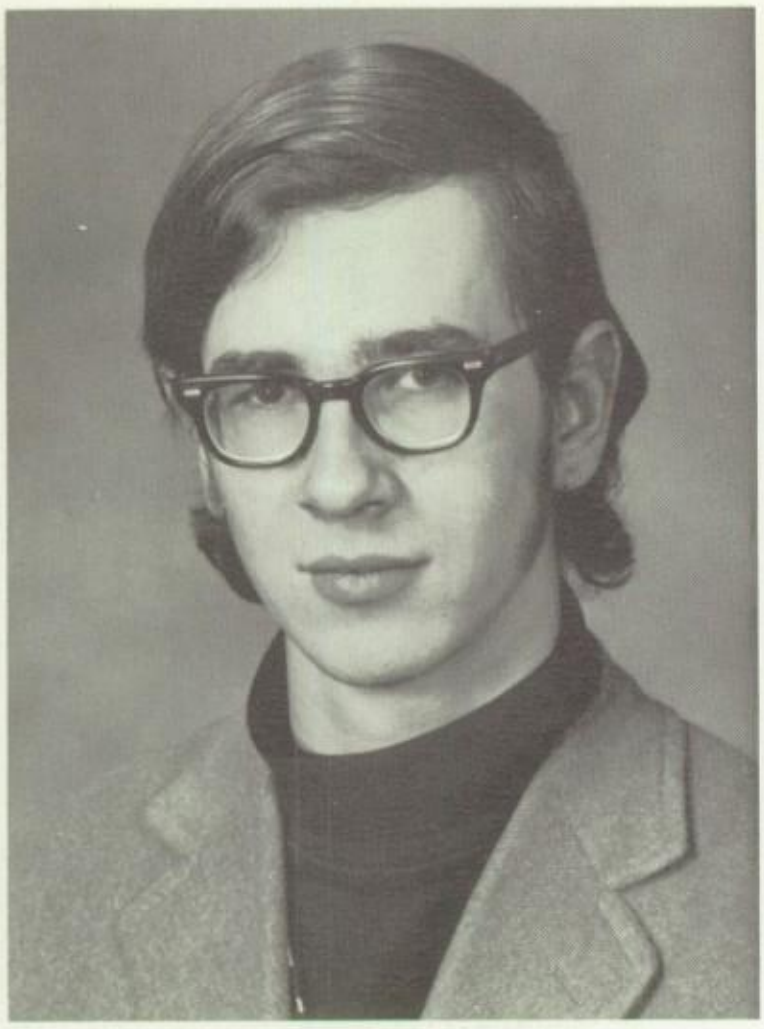
Regina Beth Sidell



What is poetry, if it is not the silent singing each man hears within his own heart?

John Meyer Slatin

John Slatin. A poet, a musician. A guy who speaks to others from his heart. How many times has he movingly played his guitar for us, sharing his songs, his beliefs and dreams? John knows how to fill the void when we are lonely, to make us laugh when we are sad. He is the one who stubbornly adheres to his principles and tries hard to make others stick to theirs.

Crazy John. Remember him on Halloween, trick-or-treating at 10:00 A.M.? Or running through Chapin Hall, flapping his arms ready to take off?

John Slatin, all this, and more . . .

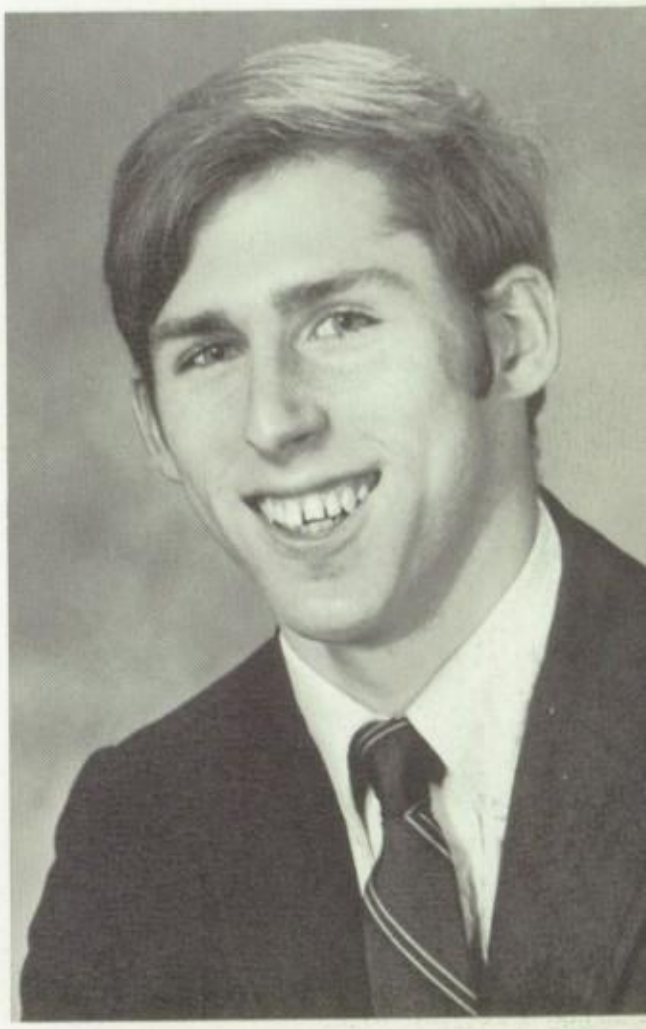
Mark Tupper Smith

Impulsive wit is one of Mark's more definable characteristics. Although he is often seen scurrying about the Spark room, his nervousness under control, he usually completes his tasks with ease.

His chaos is sometimes confused with his direct attitude towards life. It is hard not to love Mark — 'cause Mark is just so much Mark.



I hate nobody: I am in charity with the world.

Barb radiates a quiet atmosphere around her that contrasts to the chaos in Streeter. Her face is frequently buried in a German book as she sits snuggly in our haven, wrapped in an army blanket.

To many people she seems quiet and shy, but she has a spark which comes alive when she is among friends, for Barb loves people and finds life rewarding when she is surrounded by those close to her. Second only to her love for people is Barb's love for horses. Excelling as an equestrian, Barb is a firm believer in 3:00 dismissals so she may ride.

Charm is that extra quality that defies description.

She hears the music of life.

Priscilla Morehouse Tirrell

Prill is the girl invited to every party – no gathering is dull when she is around. She is now legend around Park School because of her Toots and cast parties. How typically Prill to be the gypsie in "The Skin of Our Teeth".

She is one to be feared on the sports field – she plays a good, hard, sportsman-like game, deserving to win as she usually does.

Prill carries around an international flair. Having been the sister of an A.F.S. student last year and spending a summer in Belgium, she has acquired an understanding of foreign cultures and different people which has broadened her relationships here at home.

Jennifer Lee Wood

How does one describe Jenny? A burst of energy? An over-flow of enthusiasm? Warmth? But there is more to her than that . . . a part of her that each person must discover for himself. Seldom do we see Jenny without someone chasing after her. A befreckled face and tilted glasses mark the person who treats all . . . be they freshmen or senior . . . alike.

Flora Polly Yeracaris

Duchess, we call her affectionately, or perhaps Flora the Faithful. We see her efficiently checking off the assignments she has finished or herding her three brothers into the car. Whenever there is a job to be done we can rest assured she will move steadily through it, always dependable. Yet underlying all this is the presence of warmth, a loving bubbling spirit whose understanding and insight never seem to fail. Flora's big honest brown eyes tell the story – clear depth with no disguise. The doors are open to people and experience.

The only gift is a portion of thyself.

Park School, we sing to thee

Songs thou hast taught our eager youth.

Hearts filled with love and loyalty

We give to follow in thy truth.

We have striven at thy side,

Searched for heights at thy behest;

There were no winds we did not ride,

Seeking life in gallent quest.

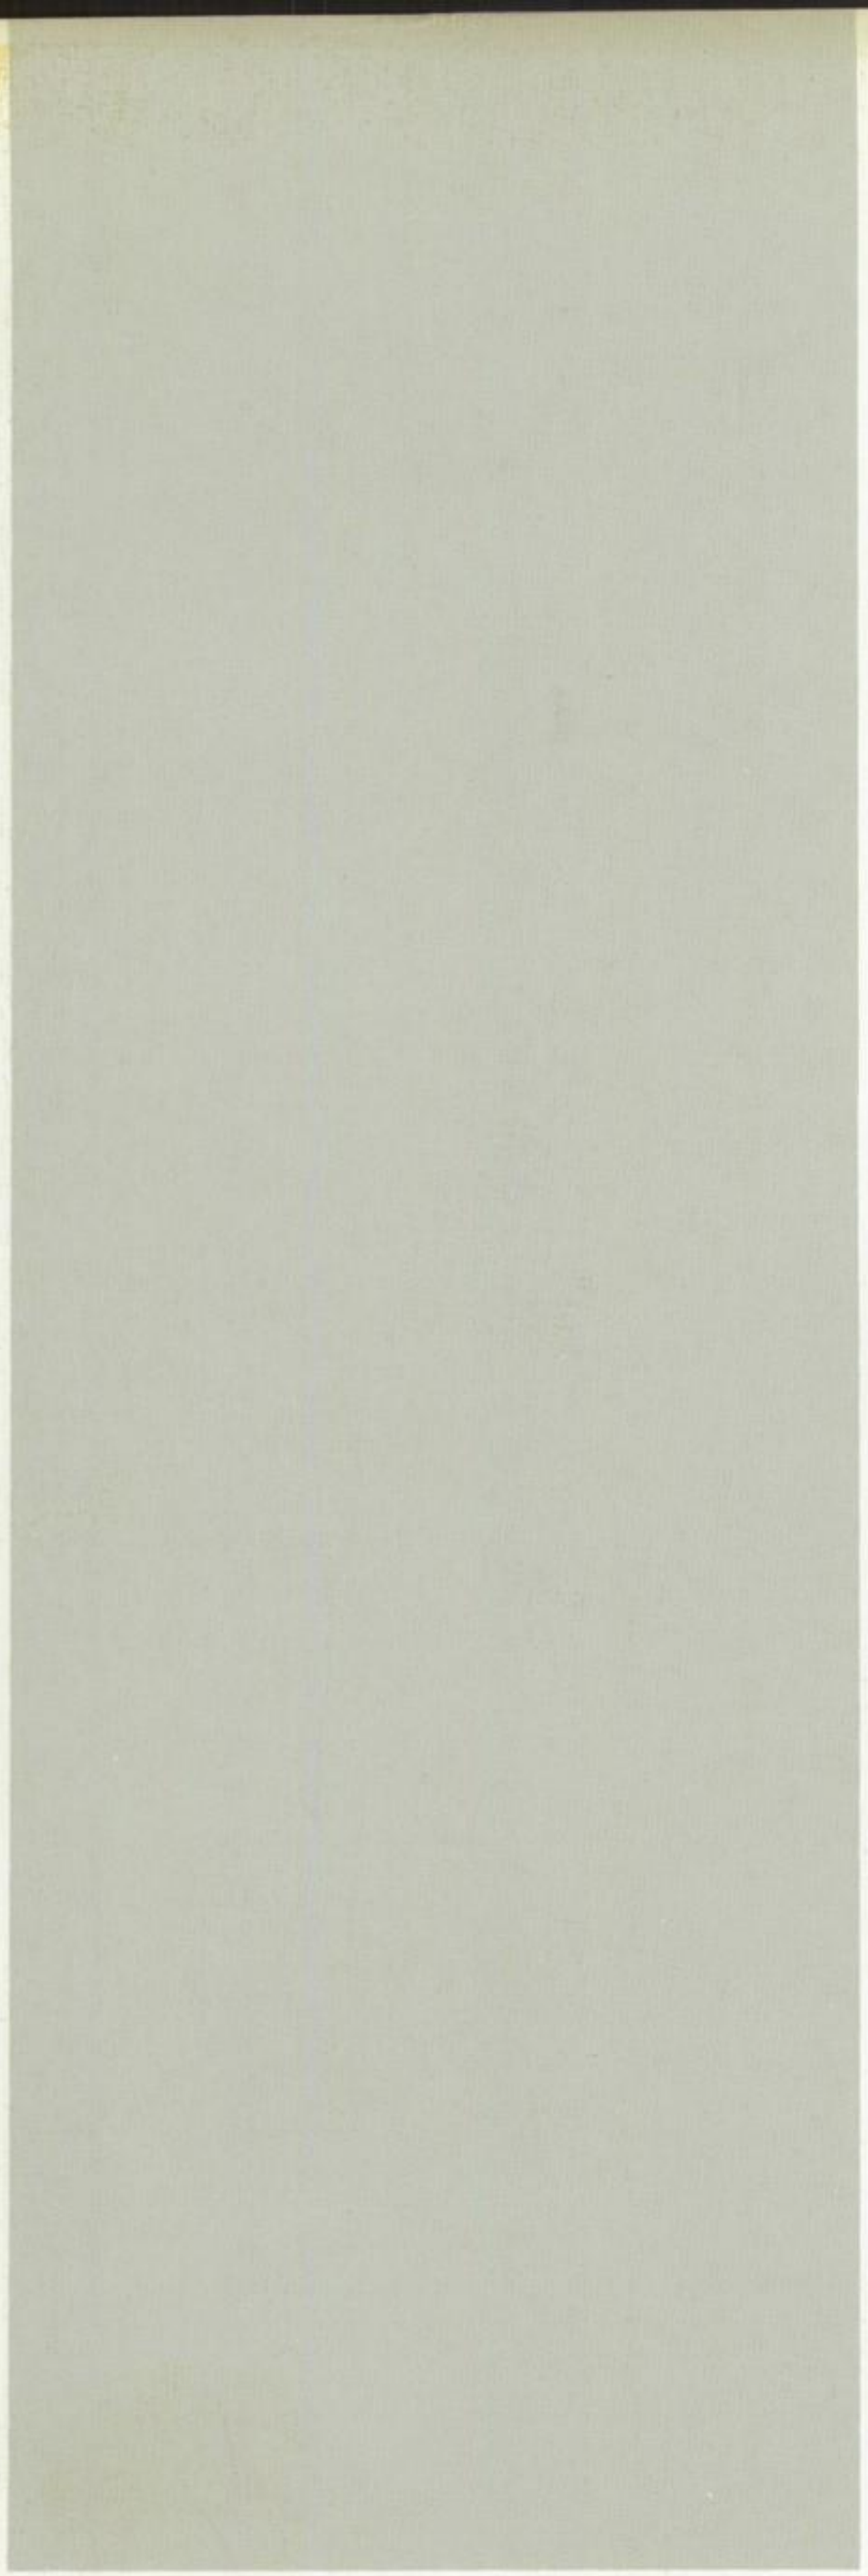
Park School, Oh, hear our song,

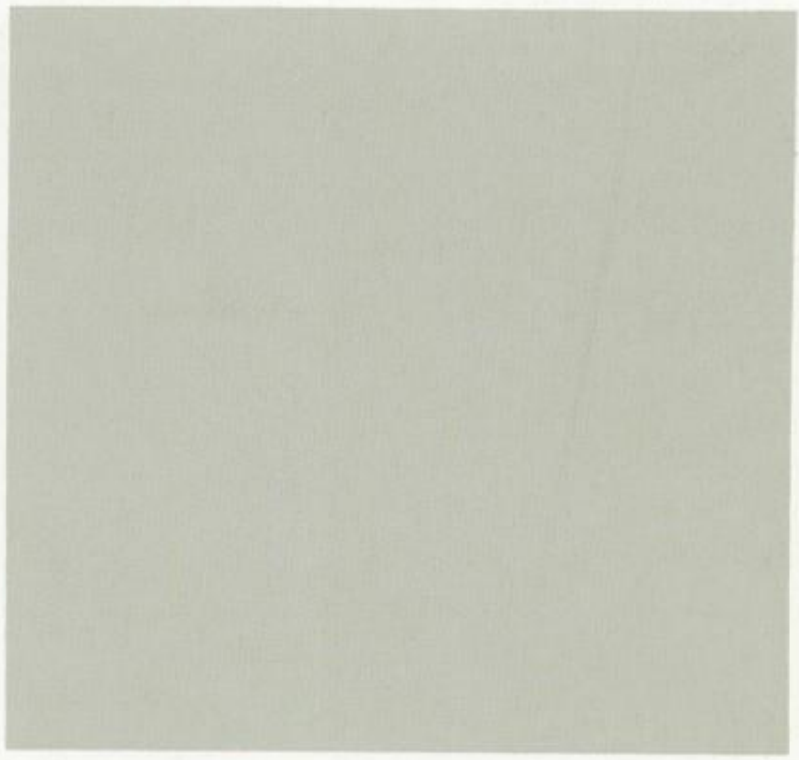
Born of joy and knowledge free,

Fulfillment that we sought for long

We ever attain-ed here in thee.

Last thoughts of the Senior Class.





I will not forget
This lonely savor of my life's
One little dewdrop

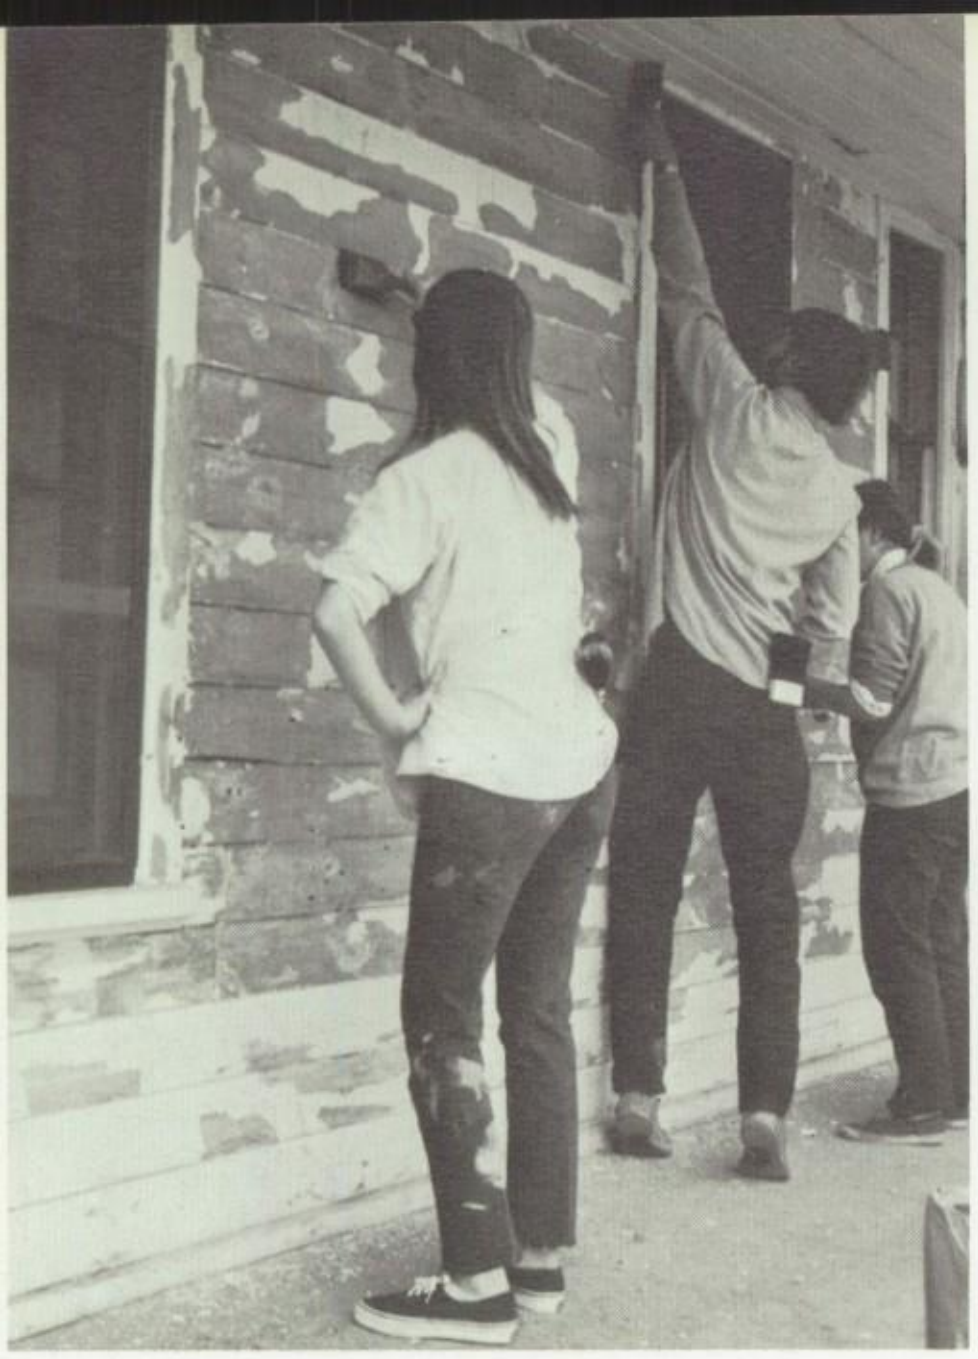
Track

It is impossible to enjoy idling thoroughly unless one has plenty of work to do.



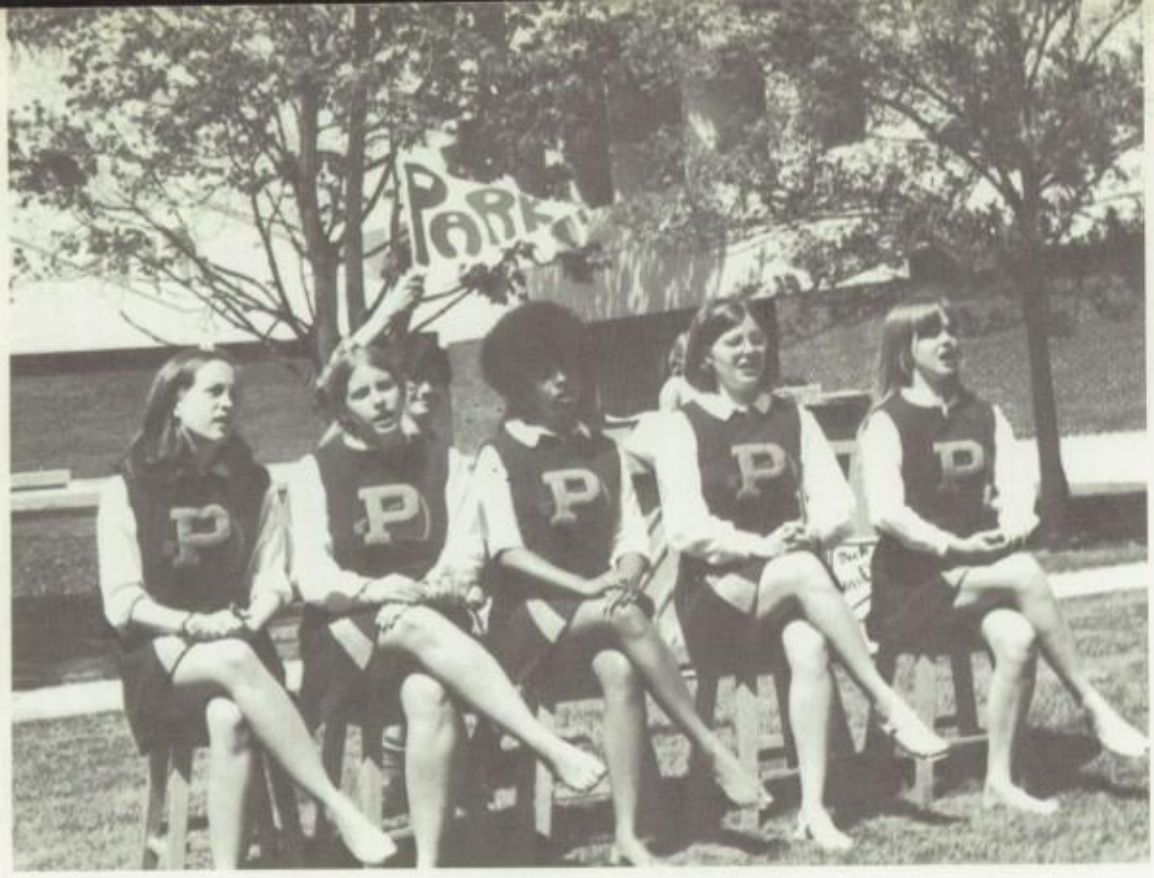
I don't like work — no man does — but I like what is in work — the chance to find yourself. Your own reality — for yourself, not for others — what no other man can ever know.

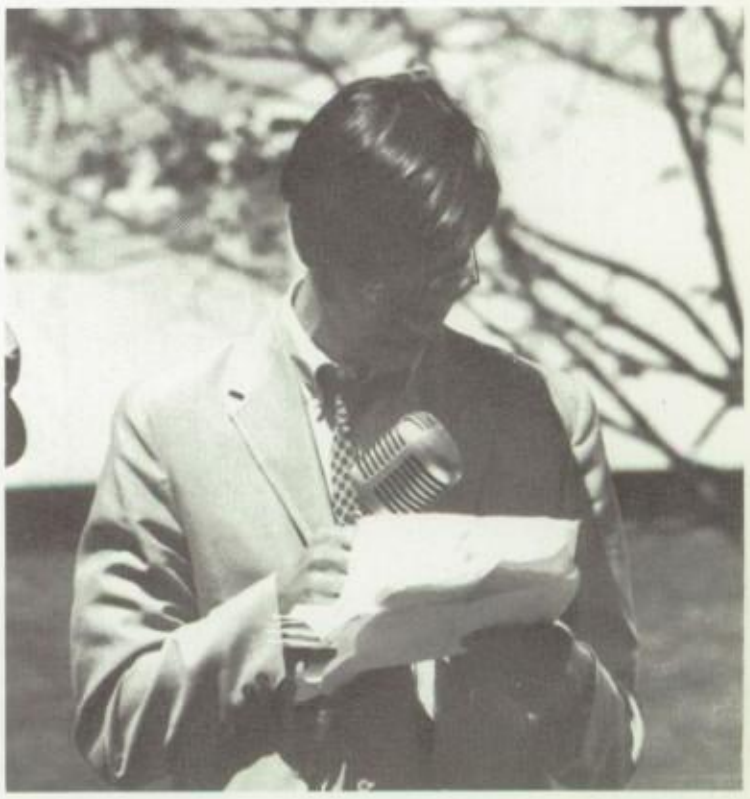
Such a fine first dream
But they laughed at me . . . they said
I had made it up

BRASS

Overture, curve the lights.
This is it, the night o' nights.
We're through rehearsing and nursing our parts,
We know every part by heart.

Make up's on, the night of nights?
This is it, we'll hit the heights,
And all the heights we'll hit . . .
On with the show, this is it . . .

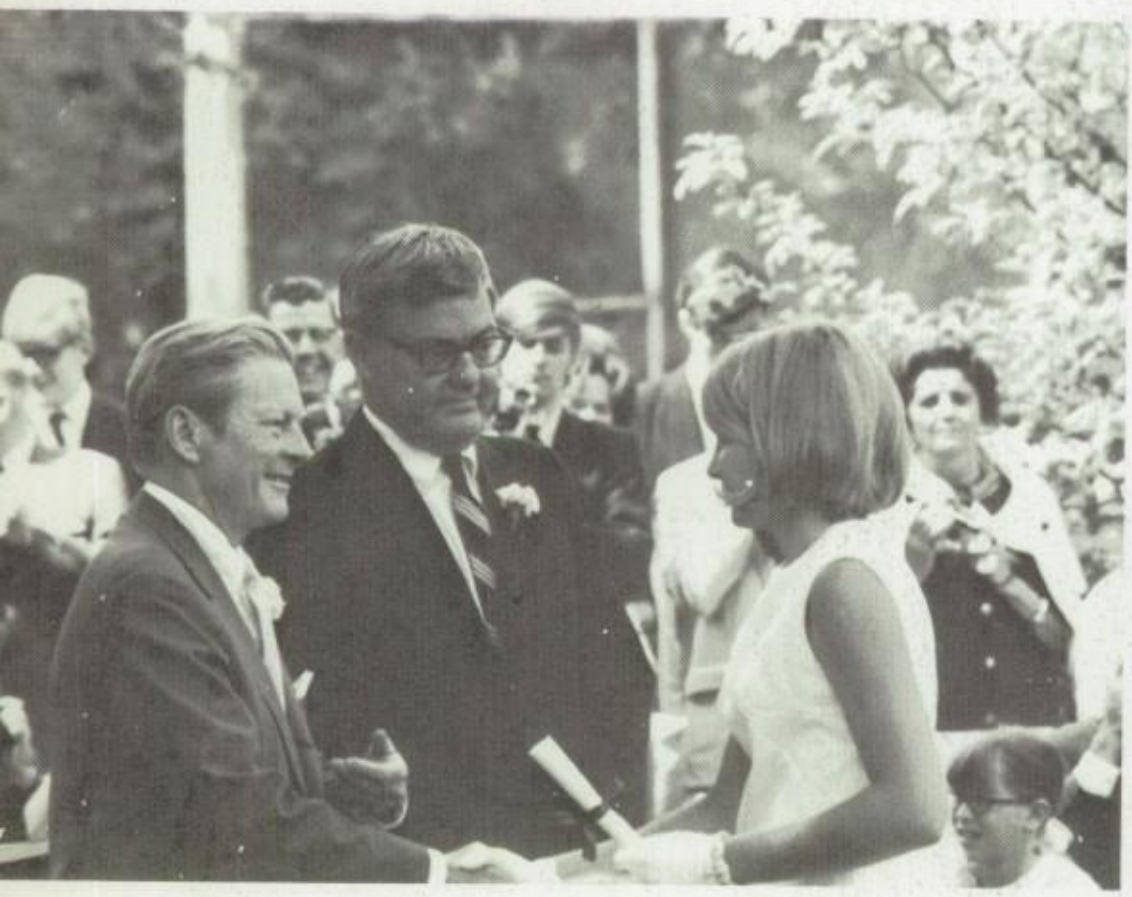


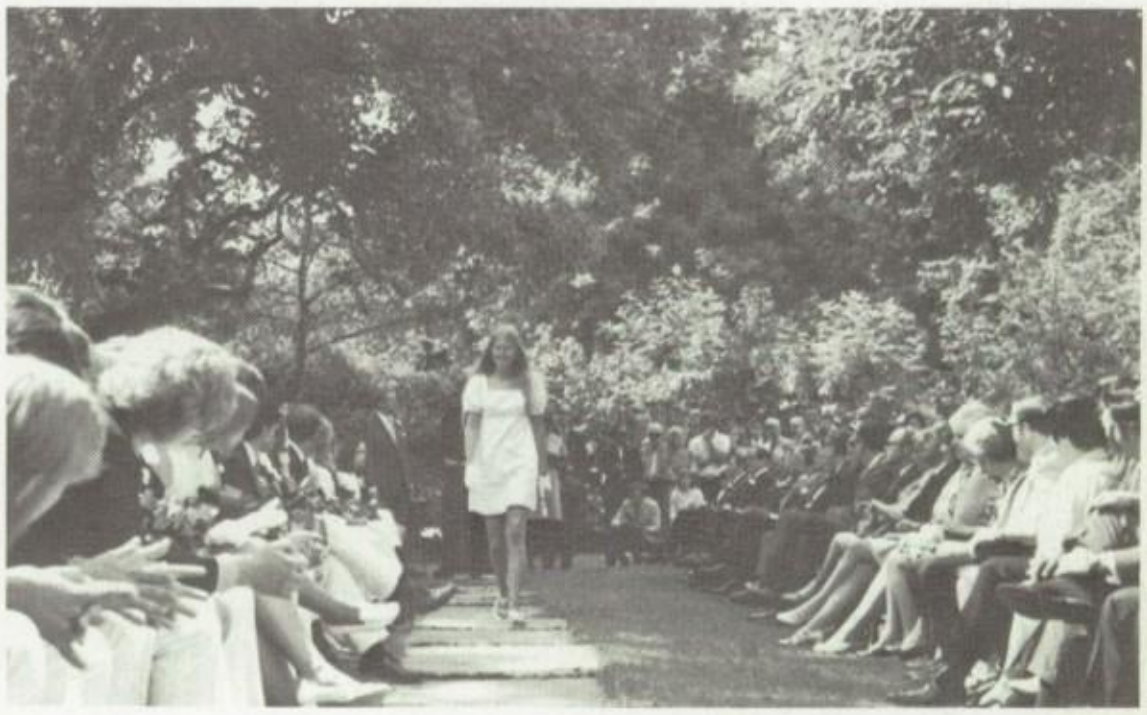


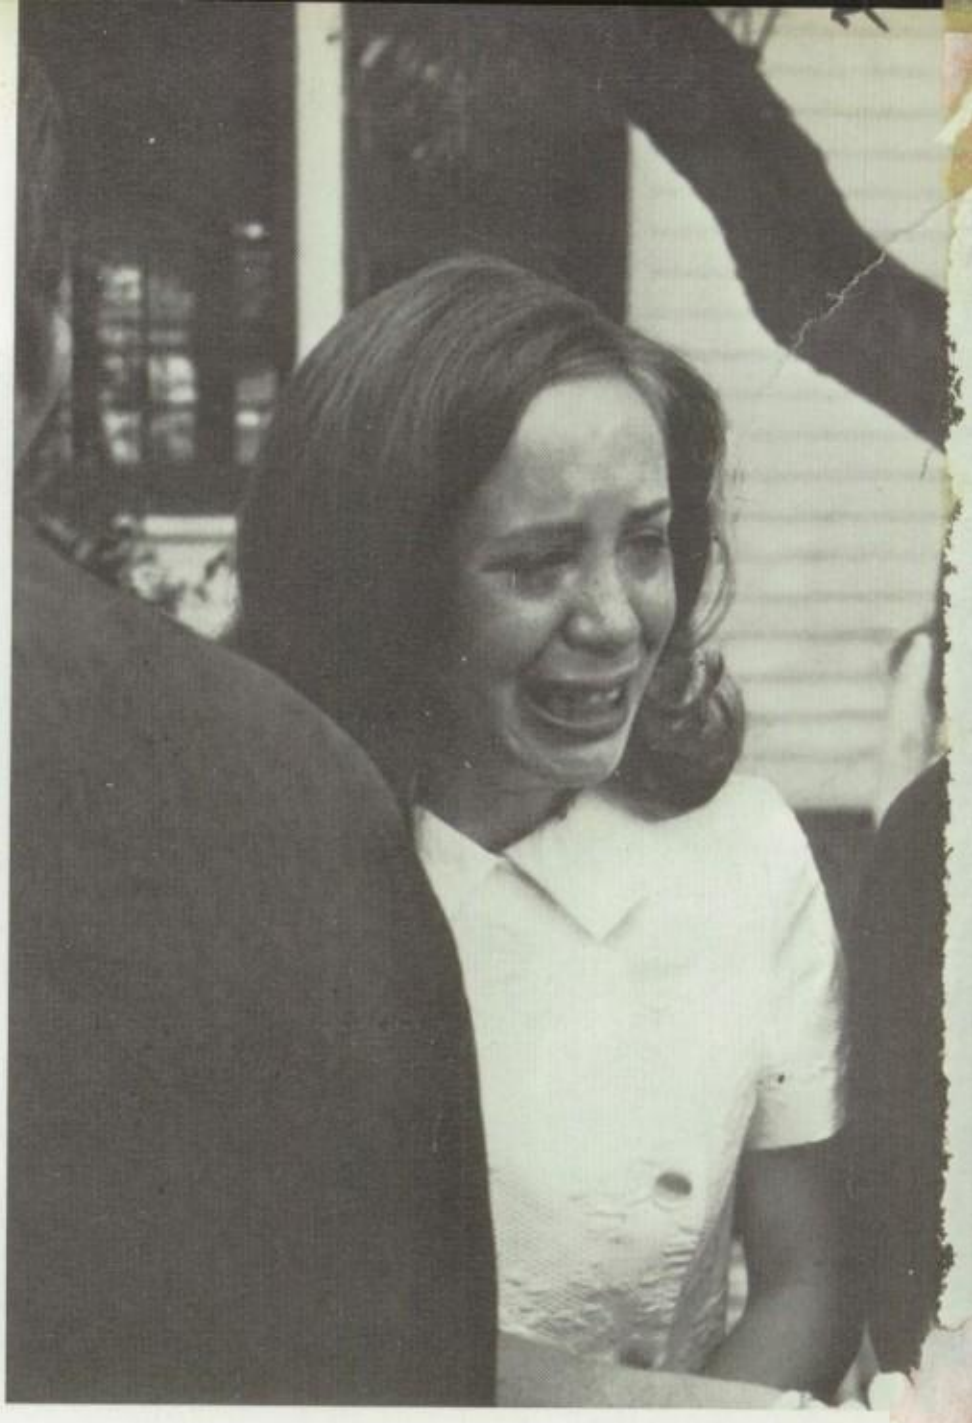
The time has come to bid you all adieu.
Goodbye, good luck to everyone one of you.
GOODBYE, GOODBYE, GOOD-BYE . . .

But the end was too indefinite. One never knew why a thing should cease on a certain day; why it couldn't continue until it was no longer loved, needed. One couldn't help thinking that the future would be unknown . . . There was always a tiny, gnawing fear, a desire to remain forever and ever, no definites, no indefinates. . . .

There's something in a person that hates the end of things.







Farewell to you and the youth I have spent with you.
It was but yesterday we met in a dream.
You have sung to me in my aloneness, and I of your longings have built a tower in the sky.
But now our sleep has fled and our dream is over, and it is no longer dawn.
The noontide is upon us and our half waking has turned to a fuller day, and we must part.
If in the twilight of memory we should meet once more, we shall speak again together and you shall sing to me a deeper song.
And if our hands should meet in another dream we shall build another tower in the sky.
